WHITNEY RUSHING HOME TO AID COOK

NEW YORK Sept. 25.—Harry Whitney, the man who holds Dr. Frederick A. Cook's proof of the discovery of the North Pole, is hurrying to New York, according to advices received today. Whitney sent wireless messages from Indian Harbor, where he arrived on the Peary relief ship Jeanie. He had with him the owner, captain and crew of the Dundee whaler, the Snowdrop, who were shipwrecked a year ago. From the fluke of the disaster till they were picked up by Whitney they were forced to live without cessation in the manner of the Eskimos.

INDIAN HARBOR, by wireless, via Cape Ray:

Rushing home; see you soon. Heard Whitney wonderful shooting; have skins for you. Picked up shipwrecked crew; terrible suffering. Notify Frank and George.

HARRY WHITNEY.

Captain Samuel W. Bartlett of the Jeanie has sent a wireless message to Herbert L. Bridgman, secretary of the Peary Arctic Club, saying:

The Snowdrop went ashore and was destroyed in Frobisher Bay at about latitude 62 North on September 29, 1908. The rescued men aboard the Jeanie are O. C. Fortune Grant, owner of the ship, and Captain Brown and six of the crew.

The Snowdrop, which was of sixty-two tons, with an auxiliary kerosene supply, was loaded with skins and oil, and ready to leave for Dundee. There were crowds of Eskimos aboard the ship, being brought back to the whaling station at Cape Haven, where she was driven ashore in a terrific gale.

The anchor began to drag, but the captain with the engineer stood their ground until the water extinguished the fires. The Eskimos and the crew reached shore with a small quantity of food and an effort was made to reach a wigwam on Hudson Bay. The ice was too deep for an overland trip and in a wigwam the crew remained across Hudson's Strait for Labrador, but were driven back by the gale and snow.

Lived on Seaweed.

Then, without any food supply, the natives and white men lived on such seals as they could shoot on the ice; some days it was impossible to get any. In March there was a blizzard lasting twenty days, and no one could get ten yards from the naive igloo.

They lived during this time on seaweed.

Umpires Dineen and Connolly. Attendance—8,000.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, Sept. 25.—The Red Sox took the field against the St. Louis Browns at 1:30 this afternoon to start a doubleheader with Big Bill Dineen, the former Boston pitcher as umpire. Bill got his appointment to President Johnson's staff a few days ago and has been making good. It was his first appearance here as an indicator man and the fans gave him a send-off when he began his duties.

The Browns had a lot of new men in their line-up and President R. L. Hedges of the club, sat in the grand stand with President John I. Taylor of the Red Sox, sizing up the material. It was Mr. Hedges's first visit here for several years.

The field was somewhat heavy from recent rains, but the bright sunshine was enjoyed by the fans.

FIRST GAME.

FIRST INNING.

Crompton started things by striking out. Shotten was easy. Francis to Stahl. Pelty was also a victim of strikes. NO RUNS.

Niles bunted to Bailey and was out at first. Lord was out the same way. Speaker was left on the log by a pinched ball and trotted to first. Speaker stole second. French hit a sharp one to Bailey but the pitcher knocked down the ball getting the runner at first. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

Griggs hit bounded from Collins foot and he was safe at first. Devoy forced Griggs. French to McConnell. Wallace walked. Ferris fanned. Killifer flied to Niles. NO RUNS.

Stahl singled to left. McConnell singled over second. Hooper dumped one in front of the plate which Killifer juggled and threw to Wallace forcing Stahl. In attempting to catch Ambu at second Bailey's throw got by Ferris, Amby going to third. Donahue singled over Bailey, scoring McConnell and putting Hooper on third. Donahue and trying to stretch the hit, Crompton to Wallace to Ferris. Collins was easy on strikes. ONE RUN.

THIRD INNING.

Bailey beat out an infield hit to French. Crompton forced Bailey at second, Lohr to McConnell. Shotten dropped a single over French's head. Pelty died, Collins to Stahl. Griggs was purposely walked, filling the bases. Devoy singled to right, scoring Crompton. Shotten was caught at the plate, Niles to Donahue. ONE RUN.

Niles walked. Lord sacrificed, Bailey to Griggs. Speaker flied to Hooper, Niles taking third after the catch. French out, Pelty to Griggs. NO RUNS.

8TH REGIMENT WINS BIG SHOOT

WAKEFIELD, Sept. 24.—The State championship and tri-color match was won by the Eighth Regiment Infantry here today with a grand total of 2,068, defeating the coast artillery by only seven points. The conditions to-day were not of the best. Tricky winds bothered the marksmen at the 1,000-yard range and scoring there was very low. Summary.

TRUTH ABOUT THE NOTABLE MARLBOROUGH SEPARATION—This romantic domestic tragedy will be related in detail in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

JACKIES SLAIN BY THE MOROS?

MANILA, Sept. 25.—It is rumored here that the United States revenue cutter Sora has been captured by Moro pirates and the crew murdered. The authorities have been unable to secure confirmation of the rumor, although dispatches have been sent to all adjacent points.

The Sora was used as a patrol boat against the Moro pirates of the Southern archipelago, in the general campaign against smuggling, inaugurated by the insular government a short time ago. She was commanded by Captain E. A. McGorty and carried a crew of fourteen, all Filipinos.

The cutter left Bauinan, twenty miles south of Pulanat, carrying J. L. Perrine, collector of the port, who was bound to Sandakan in British North Borneo, to purchase supplies. Nothing has been heard of the vessel since.

Witness Swears White Told Him He Had to Bring in Verdict—Letters Written to His Wife During Trial Read in Court To-day.

That Juror Willis A. White told his neighbors on his return home after the conviction for murder in the first degree of Chester Jordan that "Jordan is as innocent as you are," was the testimony given today at the hearing in East Cambridge Superior Court on the petition of Jordan's lawyers to have the verdict set aside.

Their contention is that White was insane before and during the time he was a member of the jury and thus incompetent to judge of the guilt or innocence of the accused man.

Today's hearing was taken up with the testimony of White's neighbors in and around Maynard.

Roland E. Harriman of Stow testified how White had told him that the guards over the jury had tried to drug him.

The case to-day was heard before Judges Sisson and Bell. All of the jurymen except White, who is confined in the Bloomingdale State Hospital Asylum at Waverley, were in attendance having been summoned. Judges Sisson and Bell, who presided during the original trial, are to decide upon the arguments and the testimony in the present application for a new trial.

Said Food Was Drugged.

Harriman testified that he had known White for twenty or twenty-five years.

"I met White the day after the verdict was returned," said the witness. "I was on my way to Cambridge to serve on a jury. We met in Maynard. White's greeting was surly. When I asked if it was not a great strain that he had been through, he seized my hand, placed it over his and said, 'It was terrible.'

"We went in on the train together and White finally came and asked me to sit with him. I did. He spoke of the strain he had been through and then said, 'That man was as innocent as you are.' White then told me that they had dragged his food. He said they had put drugs in his tea, and that he had finally given up tea. He said they tampered with his food to take away his mind. I had to decide that case the way it was decided,' said White."

Attorney Pratt then announced that Mrs. White would be in court in a short time with several letters that her husband had written to her while he was serving on the jury.

"White read some of his letters to his wife to me," said Harriman, continuing

NATIONAL LEAGUE GROUNDS, Chicago, Sept. 25.—The Boston Doves came right back at the Cubs to-day determined to take one game out of the series and not discouraged by yesterday's defeat. A hard pitchers' battle was in prospect and a good Saturday crowd was drawn to the park.

The weather was clear and cool. Evans, the Hartford recruit, made a good showing after Brown was knocked out of the box in the first inning of yesterday's game and would have finished had his finger nail not been torn off in trying to intercept a throw to second from Graham. It will be the youngster up for perhaps a week which is the more regretable because Smith was impressed by his pitching against the Cubs.

MRS. CLEVELAND OFF TO EUROPE

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Mrs. Grover Cleveland, accompanied by her four children, her mother and her maid, sailed today for Europe on the Berlin of the North-German Lloyd line. This is Mrs. Cleveland's first trip abroad since her marriage in the White House more than twenty years ago. It is her intention to remain in Europe for some length of time in the family home at Princeton. She was joined by Two of the children are going to school in Switzerland.

PASTORS RAP TAFT PLAN TO SPEAK SUNDAY

By WILLIAM HOSTER.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah., Sept. 25.—The refusal of President Taft and the committee in charge of his reception to alter their program so as to allow the President to rest on the Sabbath instead of his making the most important speech during his visit here on that day has caused unfavorable comment among the members of the ministerial association of the city.

Some of the ministers were emphatic in their criticism of the President, and will take action in the matter in their sermons on Sunday. Others are not so outspoken, but it is probable that wherever services are held some comment will be made on that subject.

Out of respect to the wishes of the ministers of the city and in recognition of the resolution adopted by the association it was decided Thursday to change the program and have all of the exercises to-day. When Governor Spry and the committee met the President Friday morning on the train, it was decided to let the original program stand.

Several ministers denounced the proposition and Rev. W. W. De Sanctis announced that on Sunday he will speak on "The President's Mistake," in which he will criticise the President for ignoring the Sabbath and making a political on that day.

BIG BALLOON BLOWS UP; 4 MEN KILLED

MOULINS, France, Sept. 25.—While it was flying more than 300 feet in the air here to-day the airship Republique exploded and four men who were in it were killed.

The Republique has been the pride of all France since the destruction of the dirigible balloon La Patrie. It was sent aloft on a trial flight to-day and was maneuvering on the outskirts of Moulins. Crowds were watching the evolutions. It made several particularly daring turns and then began to ascend. While it was going up the explosion occurred.

The Republique was built for the French Government in July, 1908, by Juliott. It was an innovation in that the fans of the propeller were rounded and a sufficient space left between the wings and the rudder to diminish the pressure of displaced air. It was eighty-two metres, sixty-one metres long and at the widest part ten metres, eighty centimetres in diameter. It had a capacity for 2,100 cubic metres of gas and was equipped with an eighty horsepower motor. When fully inflated with gas hydrogen gas the airship had a lifting capacity of 3,000 kilos, enough to carry eight passengers. It was built under contract to make forty-five miles or better an hour when not flying against the wind.

The four men killed were Captain Marchal, Lieutenant Chaure and sub-Lieutenants Vincenot and Reny. The Republique was in charge of Captain Marchal. The officers had just entered their basket in response to enthusiastic cheers from the people below when the rear of the airship exploded. The wrecked car fell to the ground and the four men on board were crushed to death under the overturned wreckage.

JAIL FOR STEALING CLOTHES AND LINE

Thomas F. Caffrey of No. 85 Tyler street was sentenced to a month in the House of Correction by Judge Duff to-day for stealing a clothes line. There was $10 worth of clothes on the line and Caffrey was going down Harrison avenue with the whole done up in a blanket when he was arrested.

HALF MOON CRASHES INTO THE CLERMONT

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The reconstructed Half Moon, a few minutes after she left the Kill von Kull, Staten Island, at the head of the Hudson-Fulton naval parade today, crashed into the port side of the Clermont, stove a big hole in the latter and smashed her own bow. No one on either boat was hurt.

The accident happened just off St. George, Staten Island, just beyond the entrance of the Kill von Kull. The Half Moon was carried into the Clermont by the strong tide at that point while the Clermont had become stuck on one side of the channel.

In spite of the mishap the program was carried out with but little delay. Quick repairs were made and the Half Moon was able to continue under her own sail, close inshore. The Clermont also got under way.

Both of the reconstructed vessels left the dock on the Kill von Kull promptly at 10:30 a. m., the Half Moon being towed out by the tug Beside Daiksil and the Clermont in tow of the tug Dalzellite. Every thing went well until both vessels tried to go ahead under their own methods of propulsion.

Swept Toward Clermont.

When the Clermont started ahead under her own steam, the rudimentary paddle wheels whirred through the water, but she did not make very good steerageway in the heavy tide. Suddenly she stuck. By that time the Half Moon had hoisted her old-fashioned sails and was beating out of the channel.

The sidestepping of the Half Moon under sail was worse than that of the Clermont. She was swept on toward the Clermont by the tide, and in a moment more dashed into the inter. The high prow of the Half Moon struck well above the waterline, and the port rail of the Clermont was ripped off.

Mechanics were on board, and it was decided to repair both vessels as well as possible and they anchored near St. George. Work was begun at once.

Nation's Greatest Pageant.

With 2,000,000 of his stepchildren from all over the country within his doors, and with the warships of the world for a guard of honor, Father Knickerbocker, garbed in resplendent attire, is paying a posthumous tribute on a Titanic scale to Henry Hudson and Robert Fulton, on this, the first day of the spectacular festival that is to last two weeks and be a pageant, the glittering glory of which shall long live in the memory of those fortunate enough to witness it.

Past the once wooded end of the city, the first part of the aboriginal "Manahatan" beheld by the great Dutch explorer and up to and near the grassy slopes of Clermont, from which Fulton's quaint craft —the first one propelled by steam to traverse American waters—took her name, glided to-day the Half Moon and the Clermont of 1909, the one of all outward seeming as the craft which generations ago bore their masters to fame.

Ten Miles of Ironclads.

Behind the two craft, which were quickly resumed after their mishap, came a fleet of fifteen hundred boats, the very flower of

CIGARMAKERS HELP STRIKERS IN SWEDEN

Cigarmakers' Union No. 97 of Boston to-day sent $100 to Sweden to assist the men who are out on a general strike in that country. At the next meeting of the union it will be decided whether to assess the 2,500 members of the local organization an additional 25 cents each to help the Swedish strikers.

The union has decided to donate $100 a week for the striking hatters of New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Five thousand hatters are on strike in those States. Twenty-five dollars has also been sent to the Ladies Tailors and Dressmakers' Union.

the merchant and pleasure fleet of the United States. On their westerly flank nodded a seemingly long line of grim ironclads flying the flags that rule the seven seas, and bearing greetings and congratulations from the potentates of the world. On their easterly flank stretched a line almost equally long of humanity, in many her sufficient to people a city of five hundred thousand—their tasks so close together as to blot out the verdant slopes of the far-famed Riverside drive and the Boulevard Lafayette.

From the left came a continuous roll of thunder—the greetings, twenty-one guns being the salute accorded by each of the seafaring monsters. From the right came a chorus of cheers, whose volumes, rolling back from the stately mansions behind, was flung across the mighty river only to resound again from the sounding boards of the Palisades.

Tribute to During Pioneers.

It was at once a fitting tribute to the daring that paved the way for the city's natural birth, to the genius that solved the problem of navigating the States without dependence upon the horses, and an appropriate inauguration for the greatest festival portright that New York City has ever known.

A feature of the day's celebration were the parting addresses, the most notable being that made by Governor Hughes at the reviewing stand of the Hundred and Tenth street, on board of which the boats Half Moon and Clermont ever to the Hudson-Fulton commission.

Ponderously slow became the Clermont and the Half Moon were not built for speed, the squadron then moved to Riverside, where Governor Hughes left them for the afternoon parade. The real pageant of the day was led by the police patrol and public safety squadrons, which darted out here and there as their duties required. The line got ready for the trip up the Hudson, passing the line of warships with their 900 big guns and 27,000 officers and men.

In Six Squadrons.

After the patrol boats in the line of parade were eight dark green torpedo boats under command of Lieutenant Commander Freeman; behind these were the escort squadron flying a blue flag with a white letter "E" show it is distinguish it from the scout squadron flying a white flag with a red letter "S."

This part of the parade was under orders to move eastward of the warship when it reached the southernmost cruiser at Forty-second street. The rest of the parade was divided into six squadrons to file up the west side of the navies, turning at the starboard end, passing at Spuyten Duyvil Creek, a few miles beyond the last American battleship.

The first squadron of this second division consisted of steamboats and ferry boats, the second, of sixty luxurious steam yachts owned by the millionaires of New York; the third, of four hundred motor boats of every description; the fourth, of 300 tugs and steam lighters; the fifth, of sailing vessels and other ships auguring for no warships; the sixth, of police, wrecking, fire and hospital boats, all making a line twenty miles long.

Salute of 21 Guns.

A salute of 21 guns was ordered for the Half Moon and Clermont as they passed the warships. The second pageant tonight will be on a more gorgeous scale, with fireworks sputtering from countless points.

The miles of battleships and cruisers represented sufficient power to raze the city. There were seventeen battleships in the first three American, four English, four German, three French, two Italian, one Dutch, one Japanese, one Mexican and one Cuban—enough potential destructive power in a row to conquer the big nation.

The parade was a triumphal one. Along the splendid ribbon of Riverside drive, with its background of foliage, there were stretched a solid phalanx of people. The boulevard were massed with humanity. The trees even were filled with people. Every roof, gable and chimney was crowded. Flags and bunting set off the background in a mass of color. There everywhere were policemen; policemen on foot, policemen on horseback, policemen flying—handling the throngs with masterly skill. By the arrangements of Police Commissioner Bingham there were no saved from serious injury in the jostling crowds which fought for a vantage points.

Cheers From Thousands.

Along the Brooklyn shores there was a repetition of the Manhattan scenes. Flags waved from hometops and thoroughfare. The shores were lined with people, and docks were a mass of people. Launches, motor boats and tugs of every description darted out from the land line carrying vast loads of human freight. There were a confusion of whistles, fog horns, sirens. Shores came from the assembled multitudes and from belated waterfront vessels.

The Fulton aerial flight from New York to Albany for a $10,000 prize offered by the New York newspapers, which was also opened to-day simultaneously with the celebration, was postponed on account of high winds.

REOPEN BATTLE FOR JORDAN'S LIFE

his testimony. "In one of them he told about a trolley trip that the jury took one Sunday. He said that he was not allowed to bow to people whom he knew, and that while going through one town he saw a man whom he had not seen for years, bowed to him and was "called down" for doing so. "It was terrible to be treated that way," said White in the letter."

Abram E. Hay, who lived for three years at White's home, was the next witness.

"I was with White the Thursday after the verdict," said he. "I thought he was excitable and eccentric. I met him as he was coming from the barn. In one hand he carried a nail of water. With the other he was gesticulating and crying. The adults have cleared away."

"White was a man who got mad quickly, but he got over it just as quick. He was in a dozen different kinds of business the three years that I was at his house. He was clever at a horse trade and a bustling auctioneer.

"Seemed Under Stress."

"One unusual thing that he did was to hitch two horses to a load of hay tandem style instead of abreast. Then he rode the forward horse."

Under cross-examination Ray would not say that he thought White insane previous to the trial.

Sylvester D. Perry, for fifty-seven years a Sudbury farmer, was next called. He said that he had known White for about fifteen years and that White was noisy on the street and greeted everybody, whether he knew them or not.

"He often traded horses at night," said the witness, "which is an unusual thing for a horse trader to do. He would get out in all kinds of weather. He would sometimes fall asleep while driving in an open team in bad weather.

"White came to my house the Friday after the trial. He was excited and seemed to be laboring under some great mental stress. He threw his arms about me and kissed me. Then he demanded a glass of whiskey and an egg. I didn't have any whiskey, but I gave him some rum and an egg. Then he wanted some more. Finally I gave him another glass of rum and another egg. I thought this unusual, because White was not a drinking man.

"After that he became hungry and asked for something to eat. We were preparing dinner and had some roast beef and things. He sat down at the table and ate two or three times full asleep while driving in an open team in bad weather.

"The letter was placed in evidence together with the other which referred to a note owed to Perry.

"The letter to me was signed, 'Yours with all my disgust,'" testified the witness. One line in the letter was where up brother, still well that ends well." He never signed himself that way before.

Under cross-examination Perry admitted that the part of the letter referring to the note was all right, and that the note was paid when due. He said he never considered White insane previous to the trial.

Jordan Looked Unkempt.

When Jordan was brought into court he looked unkempt and far different from the debonair prisoner at the trial. He was unshaven and his hair was long and unkempt. He was pallid from confinement and had grown thin.

There was an array of able counsel present to fight to save his life. Besides General Bird S. Coler, the leading counsel, Attorneys Harvey H. Pratt, Jeremiah F. Sullivan and Arthur Smith were present.

Among the persons in court and who are expected to figure prominently in the hearing, which may occupy several days, was Dr. Henry Quinby of the State Insane Hospital in Worcester, where Jordan While in now confined. Other alienists in court were Dr. George F. Jelly and Dr. Frank W. Bunker, Superintendent of the State Farm, having been the White family physician. He has gained prominence as an alienist for the prisoner during the hearing, it is understood.

When the prisoner came into court he was escorted to a chair by Deputy Sheriff Ford. Jordan was represented by Phineas Jordan, his father, Elmer Jordan, his brother, and Fred Kendall, a brother-in-law.

When General Bartlett called for his witnesses ten filed in. The first who took the stand was Arthur A. Bacon, a Sudbury farmer, who testified he had known White for fifteen years.

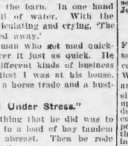
Direction by Attorney Sullivan, the witness said:

"White was always a peculiar man in speech and conduct. During the last three or four years he was accustomed to shout aloud on the street. He would bother at every one he met. He would wildly gesticulate with his arms in ordinary conversation. He began to stump his horses. He would whip them without cause. He drove recklessly through the streets and smashed up his teams repeatedly. He always seemed pleased when he smashed a team.

"White told me he was glad to get home and that they did not give him anything to eat that was any good. He said the food given him had been tampered with. He said all he did during the whole trial was to look at Jordan. He said he couldn't keep his eyes from Jordan. Something seemed to force him to keep looking at Jordan all the time.

White Sang Songs on Trial.

"I next met White on the following Friday, May 7, and he flew into a rage, saying I had tried to pump him the preceding Tuesday on the jury room secret. When I explained he threw his arms around me and kissed me. He began to sing songs about the trial which he made up as he sang. The songs were on incidents connected with the Jordan trial. He complained of his head. We were compelled to take him home. He laid down in the road and grovelled, singing and shouting. We put him in a team and on the way to his home he fell asleep half a dozen times. He would awake with a start and sing songs and shout about Jordan."



WRIGHTS WILL DEFEND RIGHTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Any attempt to make flights in this country with a Blerlot or Farman aeroplane, or any other heavier than gliding machine which they consider an infringement of their patents, will meet with the opposition of the Wright brothers.

Announcement to this effect was made to-day by Wilbur Wright in his aeroplane shed on Governor's Island in connection with a report of the proposed importation of a Blerlot monoplane by H. Hayden Sands of New York, and the purchase of a Farman biplane by J. W. Curtiss of Glenn, Mo.

Mr. Wright to-day tested the motor of the aeroplane which he is to use in his flights next week. Some of the instruments used in the very earliest aeroplanes made by the Wrights. The propellers were on the machine wrecked at Ft. Myer in 1908.

AGED TAUNTON MAN IN POISON MYSTERY

PITTSBURG, Sept. 25.—Opium poisoning is assigned as the cause of the illness from which F. F. Swift, an aged resident of Taunton, Mass., is suffering in the Allegheny General Hospital, and the police are trying to unravel the mysterious circumstances which seem to surround the case. An attempt at suicide by the aged man by some of the police officials, but they are reticent as to the investigation that is being made.

Mr. Swift is eighty-two years old. He was found unconscious on the pavement at Anderson and Layock streets at 2:30 a. m. Quick treatment was given him, and he so far came out of his unconscious state as to mutter the name of Mrs. George Howard of Beaver Falls, Pa., and an effort is being made to locate her.

LAST OF BARNUM ALBINOS IS DEAD

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 25.—Joseph Lucas, the last member of the first family of Albinos to be exhibited in America, is dead at the general hospital here. Lucas and his parents and sister were brought to this country from Holland by P. T. Barnum.

HUDSON-FULTON STAMP ON SALE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 25.—The new Hudson-Fulton two-cent stamp was placed on sale to-day in post offices as far west as Denver. The issue of this special stamp is only 250,000,000, and already 50,000,000 have been sent out to the various post offices.

CUBA VOTES RELIEF FOR STORM VICTIMS

HAVANA, Sept. 25.—The Senate has voted to lend $700,000 to bankers for three years without interest, the bankers in turn to lend the money to needy planters, who are victims of the recent cyclone.

FREED A WEEK; AGAIN IN JAIL

Arrested after a chase of over a mile during which four shots were fired by officer Isaac Downing, George Cummings said to have just ended a term in State prison, was held for the Grand Jury by Judge Stone in the Cambridge District Court to-day on the charge of breaking and entering the home of Mrs. Sumner Brooks, No. 1,764 Massachusetts avenue, North Cambridge.

Over $500 worth of silverware was found in a box which Cummings dropped while fled from the police. The property is said to have been owned by Mrs. Brooks.

In the pockets of Cummings's coat was found a release from the Charlestown State's prison. It was made out in the name of George Curtiss, and showed that the owner had been released a week ago after having served a sentence of five years for breaking and entering the home of Henry D. Vezza of North Cambridge in 1904.

POLICE CHIEF SAYS "LA SIESTA" IS ART

PITTSBURG, Sept. 25.—Superintendent McQuade, of the Police Department, has refused to suppress a copy of the famous painting "La Siesta" by L. Zoe. The copy was exhibited in the window of a local art store, and Mrs. Percival Brown, who is prominent in this city, declared that it was indecent.

Superintendent McQuade sent a policeman censor to see the picture, and the latter, Edna Brown said several of her friends that when they had had all its nude studies removed from the Carnegie Art Galleries here he would suppress "La Siesta." He also informed Mrs. Brown that only persons of perverted minds would see anything wrong in the picture of a sleeping woman.

Several women are preparing a petition to Mayor Magee, asking for the removal of Superintendent McQuade.

BUY SNAKE BITES, THEN GET LIQUOR.

WINSTED, Conn., Sept. 25.—Hampered a no-license village, is said to have a Yankee resident who is making a good thing selling "Cook Fever Bitters," each of them, but which in reality are snake bites, to men desirous of getting liquor in dry stores.

It costs ten cents to be bitten. The snake-bitten man hastens to a druggist's where his wife's skin has been previously bit by the snake's fangs, and gets a quart of whisky in exchange for the poison. No drug store will demand a doctor's prescription when there is a danger.

$1,000 FEAST ON 21ST BIRTHDAY

SARATOGA, Sept. 25.—Daniel S. Gunning, a grandnephew of Mrs. Leland Stanford, is twenty-one to-day. As a gift there is transferred to him $250,000 in securities, which form a portion of his share of the Stanford estate. On his twenty-fifth birthday his fortune is swelled by trust funds to nearly $500,000. To celebrate the event Mr. Gunning gives an elaborate dinner in the United States Hotel. The dinner will cost $1,000.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

Flora Wilson to Make American Concert Tour.

PARIS—After long preparation by that king of taskmasters, Jean de Reszke, Miss Flora Wilson, daughter of President Taft's Secretary of Agriculture, has taken her society friends by storm in the announcement that she will make a concert tour in the United States. Miss Wilson has been constantly in society here, chiefly in company with Miss Evelyn Walsh, now Mrs. McLean of Washington. She is also a great friend of Miss Fanny Reed.

Tries to Seize Submarine.

THE HAGUE—A bold Dutch bailiff made an unsuccessful attempt to seize the Swedish submarine Hvalen at Ijmuiden, and the Foreign Office of the Netherlands was obliged to-day to apologize to the Swedish Charge d'Affaires, who presented a spirited protest. The steering gear of the Hvalen broke down in the North Sea. A fishing boat picked the submarine up and towed her to the Hook of Holland on promise of payment. The crew of the submarine, however, sailed off without paying the bill. As a result, the fishermen notified the bailiff.

Confer on Chinese Loan.

PEKIN—The foreign bankers interested in the Hankow-Szechuan loan of $50,000,000 met Grand Councilor Chang-Chi-Tung in an endeavor to reach an understanding in the matter of signing the loan agreements. The American representative universally fought, to be treated by morphine, cocaine, belladonna and such drugs, but was a constitutional disease, which could only be overcome by means of thoroughly constitutional and rational generative treatment, which should remove the real cause of the disease from the blood and nervous system, and by building up the general health up to par in every way. Since this first case the Hayes treatment has been used in thousands of seventy-five thousand cases, with good, gratifying and satisfactory results.

General Election Soon.

LONDON—The agents of both political parties are now convinced that a general election will take place either in December or January, the date depending upon whether the House of Lords shall reject the budget outright or take a more tentative course. The House of Commons will conclude its discussion of the budget and send it to the House of Lords about October 21.

Emperor Sees Carnegie Gift.

VIENNA—Emperor Francis Joseph paid a visit to the Imperial Museum of Natural History to see the cast of the diplodocus presented to His Majesty by Andrew Carnegie. His Majesty showed much interest in the philanthropic activities of Mr. Carnegie and expressed his admiration for the peace fund.

To Fortify Copenhagen.

COPENHAGEN—Both the Houses of Parliament have adopted national defence bills which provide for the strengthening of the defenses of Copenhagen by the erection of forts north and south of the city and forts at various points on the coast of Kalleboe Bay to prevent a possible landing and surprise by a hostile force.

Croker Keeps Stables.

DUBLIN—Richard Croker to-day told the Association of Irish Race Horse Breeders statements attributed to him that he had given up racing "somewhat disgusted," but that his experience was not a severe one. He is disposing of his stud, only keeping high-class horses.

Find Horace's Sabine Farm.

ROME—Professor Pasqui has completed his explorations of the site of Horace's Sabine farm. He discovered traces of mosaics and the remains of walls. The area of the land is two acres. It will be excavated soon.

Shower of Meteors.

HONOLULU—A phenomenal rain of meteors caused much alarm among the natives. Observers counted forty meteors that fell into the sea.

SOCIETY FOLK TAKE AIR TRIP; SETTLE A BET

PITTSFIELD, Sept. 25.—Mystery surrounded the ascension of the balloon "All America," one of the largest balloons in America, from here to North Adams, at 6 a. m. to-day. The passengers were Norman Prince, a wealthy young Boston society man, H. H. Hoonis of Boston and Newport, and a beautiful society woman chaperoned by Mrs. N. H. Arnold of North Adams, wife of the pilot. It was the first trip for all except Pilot Arnold.

Prince refused to give any information until he was settled in the basket. The flight was in settlement of a wager, and Prince announced that if he won he, like Peck, said he wanted to get the largest balloon possible, and the "All America," with a capacity of 80,000 cubic feet of gas was secured. In order to avoid any crowd of curious people, the flight was begun at dawn.

Prince, who is a son of Frederick Prince, the broker, did not want his family nor friends to know of the ascension. All the arrangements for the trip were made by telephone and from different places. An order came from Newport, another from Pride's Crossing, and still another from Beverly Farms.

The party came last night to the fashionable Hotel Richmond in town. At 1 a. m. to-day an auto was sent from North Adams for the party and they arrived here at 3:30. They went quietly to the Aero Park, where the balloon was filled.

There was hardly anyone astir when the party entered the basket and left the earth. The green bag rose easily and sailed through the Berkshire hills to North Adams, Pittsfield and Lenox. It landed in Canton, N., nearly 200 miles away.

MORE MONEY NEEDED FOR MODIFIED MILK

At the last meeting of the Committee on Milk and Baby Hygiene it was announced that there has been a very wonderful development in the demand for the committee's pure, properly modified milk supplied at its ten stations and the extension to its nursing staff of Miss Leah B. Austin, formerly assistant superintendent of the infants' hospital. The treasurer, Arthur H. Brooks of No. 4 Joy street, reported very encouraging, as yet no sufficient support for carrying on the work on through the Winter. Appeals for such contributions are necessary, because babies do not cease to be born during the Winter, nor in many cases could mothers nurse them to mothers' ignorance and for their need of similar treatment and food.

DIES FROM JOY AS HE SEES HOME CITY

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Barehanded and shouting as the fleet passed the statue of Liberty, Herman R. Rube, chief petty officer of the cruiser North Carolina, sank to the deck, dead from excitement, his emotions arriving in his breast a moment after a long absence long too much for his heart.

Rube had looked forward with special anticipation to the pleasure in store during the Hudson-Fulton celebration, and had been talking of his plans for days.

MISS PECK IS AGAIN SCORED BY OLD RIVAL

Miss Annie S. Peck, the famous mountain climber of Worcester, is again the object of an attack by Mrs. Fanny Bullock Workman, who has just returned from the world's altitude record for women for over ten years. Mrs. Workman, in an interview here to-day, declared she could not see Miss Peck's claim that she had reached an altitude of 23,000 feet in the Andes.

"Although for ten years I have held the world's altitude record for women, I make no boast of it," said Mrs. Work man. "As a matter of fact, in scientific circles, it was not to gain records that we have for six seasons explored the Himalaya.

"I mention the matter here because in a reference to her ascent in 1908 of the Peruvian peak Huascaran Miss A. Peck says in her article in Harper's Magazine: 'It may be regarded as certain that Huascaran is above 23,000 feet. If, as seems probable, the height is 24,000 feet, I have the honor of breaking the world's record for men as well as for women.'

"It must be noted that Miss Peck on that mountain made no instrumental measurements of even casual character above 19,000 feet. She merely quotes the eye estimates of herself and two Swiss guides as evidence for the heights she assigns to the peak.

"In those days of scientific mountaineering no precision is accepted which estimates play no role and are unanimous. Regarded in this light, the claims of Miss Peck's altitude claims will not be accepted except by those ignorant of modern methods of measuring mountains."

LOEB'S VIGILANCE HAS RICH RESULTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The record customs receipts from the passengers of any one liner becoming transatlantic passenger steamship this year were collected from the passengers of the Kaiser Wilhelm II. on the North German Lloyd liner.

The total amount collected in duties on that record vessel was $30,000. Edward M. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation paid about $12,000 of this total, one of the largest sums ever turned into the Treasury by an American returning from abroad.

ORDERED TO QUIT STATE; RETURNS

James W. Barnett, whose sentence was suspended last November on condition he leave this State, claims that he returned because his mother was sick, and is being held at the Lynn police station until the authorities investigate.

Sentenced in November last by Judge Dunbar at Lynn, Barnett went to Maine, where he stayed till May, and then, returning to Salem, he was arrested for larceny. He was discharged and rearrested in Lynn, where he has spent the last four months in prison. Judge Dunbar says that if he is not telling the truth about his mother's illness it will mean a year for him in the penitentiary. Barnett is thirty-eight years old and has a States prison record.

WHAT CAN BE DONE FOR ASTHMA?

Now that tuberculosis is becoming universally recognized as not only preventable, but curable, and physicians who have made a study of the disease hesitate no longer to direct patients to remain at home and make the fight against the terrible scourge, the work of the late Dr. Harold Hays, M. D., in investigating and studying the cha racter and cause of that other hold-fast incurable disease—Asthma—is coming into greater and greater prominence, and the sentiment which he and his successors and associates in Buffalo have been perfecting for the past thirty years in an unobtrusive manner is now being recognized as having cured Asthma and Hay Fever also in the cutting out of curable diseases. Probably no man of his time has had a greater influence in relieving mankind and giving to any one disease than has Dr. Hayes in his Asthma. When he began his studies, as far back as 1868, he found no cases cured by the methods then in vogue, and it was not until 1879 that he cured his first case which stayed cured. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, Chauncey Mitts of Rochester, a locomotive engineer, who died on the day of his eighty-eighth birthday after, had no return of the disease. Dr. Hayes discovered because he recognized that Asthma was not a local disease, but a nerve poison universally fought, to be treated by morphine, cocaine, belladonna and such drugs, but was a constitutional disease, which could only be overcome by means of thoroughly constitutional and rational generative treatment, which should remove the real cause of the disease from the blood and nervous system, and by building up the general health up to par in every way. Since this first case the Hayes treatment has been used in thousands of seventy-five thousand cases, with good, gratifying and satisfactory results.

When Dr. Hayes died, in 1894, he left his practice in the hands of his two sons who had specialized physicians who had been trained under his own eye in the methods so successful and by whom the great work is still being carried on.

That the disease is constitutional rather than local is now the accepted teaching. Such a fact Dr. Hayes' consistency in setting forth his ideas, and the medical man who now holds Asthma to be incurable is known to be behind the times. One of the foremost Eng. lish physicians has recently put his wife and daughter under the Hayes treatment, and has been cured in less than thirty cases to Dr. Hayes for treatment.

Among Dr. Hayes' brilliant cures was that of the late L. E. Waterman, the famous pen manufacturer of New York, who some months previous to his death wrote Dr. Hayes as follows:

"Dear Dr. Hayes—You have made me so well in curing my Hay-Fever and Asthma that I have proved a possible business mill it drives me." Mr. George E. Hayes, the Buffalo advertising man of his day and founder of Hayes' Weekly Ad, wrote: "I have implicit faith in your treatment and can say it is so. London physician of some note, speaking of Hay Fever, Asthma, said: 'They DO cure Asthma,' with strong emphasis on the do. I am glad to be able every to make any use of my letters you may choose."

Mrs. A. P. Foster, No. 125 Washington avenue, Chelsea, Mass., writes January 28, 1909: "I have used Hayes from Rose Cold and three years from Asthma and after taking your treatment have never had the slightest return of either." Mrs. Ida Lenzel, No. 2018 Liberty avenue, Pittsburg, says: "I have no fear of Asthma since cold of Asthma since 1890. My testimony still holds good." Mr. Perry Johnson, of Flushing, L. I., writes: "For over 3 years I have not had an attack of Asthma and have had no return of it." Mr. Wm. H. Hoops, well known in Chicago, lives at 1911 E. 55th street, says: "I was getting worse at Asheville, N. C., and sent for Hayes' and applied for your treatment. Within two weeks I was able to walk to the office and in ninety days I was entirely cured of Asthma and have never had the slightest return."

The Hayes Bulletin, a quarterly publication, free to any sufferer interested to spread knowledge of the discoveries and facts which have led to these results, and any sufferer can have the latest number by writing to Dr. Harold Hayes, Buffalo, N. Y., and asking for Bulletin 1108.

'NEVER HEARD OF SHONTS IN $200,000 SUIT'

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Coupled with the denial of Delancey Nicoll, the attorney representing Theodore P. Shonts, head of the $225,000,000 Interborough Metropolitan Company, that his client had alienated the affections of Mrs. Anne Lovell Hipsch, whose husband, Frederick, he instituted suit again the railroad man for $200,000, came the emphatic declaration to-day of Mrs. John J. McDermott of No. 628 West One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street, a sister of Mrs. Hipsch, that she had never heard of Shonts.

"Who is Shonts?" she asked. "I have never heard of the man. My sister may have met him as she may have met other men, but she is suing her husband for absolute divorce. None of the family ever wanted her to marry that man, and when he says that she was his stenographer he says what is not true. At present she is in Ottawa, on a visit to her people."

Through his lawyer, Delancey Nicoll, Mr. Shonts declares he is the victim of one of the strangest cases of mistaken identity on record.

It would seem, according to Mr. Nicoll, that the president of the Inter-Met has some double for whose misdeeds Mr. Shonts is being held responsible. As to who this double is, there is no clue.

Extreme devotion to his business ensued the only disagreements the Hipsches had until he made discoveries on August 2 last, which led to a row at Chatham, N. J., that culminated in a separation.

Mr. Hipsh has made it a practice to work twelve or fourteen hours a day, and this left his little or no time for social diversions, of which his wife was exceedingly fond.

There is quite a disparity in their ages, she being fourteen years his junior. He is a Jew, while she is a Christian. She was in humble circumstances when they were married five years ago. They have no children. Her maiden name was Anna Lovell.

Mr. Hipsh is most bitter against Mr. Shonts. He charges him with conducting an intrigue with Mrs. Hipsh over a period of two years, and not only wrecking her life, but destroying his happiness. Mr. Hipsh loved his wife devotedly. He was proud of her beauty, her smartness and of her social standing.

Mr. Hipsh, in speaking of his suit against Mr. Shonts, said:

"While I have asked him for $200,000 damages to punish him for the injury he has inflicted on me, I do not want a penny of his money. All I want is a verdict of $10 or ten cents, or even one cent.

BOILER BLOWS UP IN CAFE, GIRL INJURED

A water boiler in the Petit Lunch at Trinity Court, Dartmouth street, exploded early to-day, injuring Ethel Gleason, a waitress in the lunch room. She was struck over the left eye with a piece of the steel boiler and suffered a deep gash.

The boiler was a new one and had been put in yesterday. It is of ten gallons capacity and supplies hot water for the coffee urns. It is heated by steam.

At the time of the explosion there were a number of people in the restaurant eating pieces of steel were picked all over the room, but Miss Gleason was the only one hurt.

The restaurant is conducted by M. P. Quessenitzer. The room where the explosion occurred is in the basement of Trinity Court in the rear of the old Art Museum.

The boiler was torn in thousands of pieces. The report of the explosion could be heard for blocks. It caused great excitement among the guests in Trinity Court and the management of the hotel had difficulty in quieting their fears.

MALDEN TAX VALUES JUMP $6,000,000

As a result of the investigation into the tax valuation of Malden a great increase has been made in valuation and the city will receive a far larger amount of taxes this year.

A sub-committee of the Finance Commission appointed by Mayor Richards to investigate the problem of city valuation found but $6,000,000 in personal value on the books and said it ought to be at least $25,000,000. The committee recommended the discharge of the Board of Assessors.

When John F. Hobbes's term as member of the board expired the aldermen elected Chairman Elder who went to work at once with Assessors Shackford and Mansfield. They reduced the tax from $10.20 to the almost incredible rate of $15.70 in a year, lumped personal valuation from $6,000,000 to double that figure and put $2,000,000 more real estate on the books.

The increases were almost incredible in the finest sections of the city, and long strips of holders of what are called poor men's homes have received the benefit of proper equalization of the tax burdens.

The late Senator Charles L. Dean's valuation was jumped from $30,000 to $350,000, and he will have to pay $5,670 against $611 last year.

Chairman Elder increased his own taxes by paying on a claim of $16,000 which he holds against the city. D. P. Corey, president of the Public Library, used to pay $282, and his bill this year will be $1,631; the department store of the F. W. Joslin Company has had its bill raised from $1,779 last year to $2,703. These are but a few of the instances where bills have been doubled and tripled.

ELECTION SOON, SAY ENGLISH LEADERS

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Although the Right Hon. J. A. Pease, the chief Liberal whip, says he had made no arrangements for a general election, politicians of all parties are convinced that the dissolution of Parliament is near, January being the latest date assumed. The newspapers without exception, accept this as a fact.

ATTACKS OFFICER; GETS 3 MONTHS

The sequel of a street row between policemen and a gang of Charlestown toughs took place in the Charlestown District Court to-day when Judge Bragg sentenced Thomas Burke to three months in the House of Correction for assault on Patrolman Joseph Ahearn. Burke struck Officer Ahearn $15 for assault on Patrolman Ingersoll. Ahearn was also fined $10 for disturbing the peace.

EXPRESS COMPANY EXPLAINS CASE

Denial of the teamsters' strike reported at the statue of the Walker Express Company is made by the management of that concern, and no trouble growing out of the discharge of three men, none of whom are members of the teamsters' unions of Boston. Social Lines Disregarded As Canvassers Whirl Through City.

This is hospital day in Lynn.

Three hundred fair maidens representing the dower of the Shoe City are making a house-to-house and street canvass to-day selling pennant flags and badges to the public to help support the Lynn hospital. Before nightfall it is expected these zealous girls, aided by their chaperons, will take in over $5,000 in sales and contributions.

Fifty automobiles are loaned the workers by representative men of the city. Poor girls and rich girls are working, et lions together, to rake in the money for sweet charity's sake.

Gold plated badges sold at a dollar and other badges at 10 and 25 cents and pennant flags at a quarter are the articles these girls are selling to the public for the great cause. The badges in some instances have brought as much as $100.

$100 For a Badge.

Luther S. Johnson, president of the Lynn Hospital Corporation and one of Lynn's wealthy shoe manufacturers and public philanthropic citizens, gave his check for $100 for one of the gold plated badges that sell for a dollar. Other public spirited citizens have amounts high in excess of the badge value that they sold them for in the pretty girls.

In automobiles the girls, with chaperons, started their tour of the different streets of the city before eight this morning and by the entire city and not a house will escape a visit from one of their numbers.

In many instances the big touring cars are driven by the wealthy owners, while others sent their chauffeurs for the day's work. All Lynn is eager to help.

The hospital is trying to raise $31,000. Each girl who is working to-day to aid the hospital started out with $25 worth of badges. She carried a money box for her proceeds. As fast as her badges are sold she had her stock replenished.

Began at Railroad Stations.

As early as 7 o'clock this morning the girls were at the railroad stations with their badges and pennants, and all found ready buyers. Hospital Day in Lynn has become an institution in itself and the public mind finds ready expression in donations. Everybody is wearing a hospital button or badge. The pennant flags bear a facsimile of the Lynn Hospital handsomely done in silk, and make a hobby souvenir attached to the little canes.

Each chaperon has in charge five girls, and these constitute an automobile party for the week of touring the city and securing the house to house canvass. The work will go on until early this evening. The girls give freely of their services, as do all of the workers.

Captain Augustus J. Hoitt, the United States Pension Agent at the Federal building in Boston, who is a member of the board of directors of the Lynn Hospital, has general supervision of the day's work. The Lynn lodge of Elks furnished the committee with a special officer as headquarters.

Mrs. Nellie F. Libbey, chairman; Mrs. Grace Southwick and Mrs. Eliza F. Silloo, secretaries, are the ladies in charge at the Captain Hoitt.

Those are the chaperons who have charge of the girls: Nellie Caverly, Cynthia Eden, Lillie B. Allen, Grace Goodhead, Bertha Bartlett, Bess Bartlett, Bess Starkey, Edith Beverly, Mabel Bullard, Phoebe Bemis, Pinette Chaffee, Essie J. Foster, Florence Chaffee, Libbie Lord, Bertha Lee, Laura A. May, Eva McArthur, Lizzie Hardesty, Clara B. Newhall, Bertha Putnam, Lucinda Pierce, Hattie Palmer, Mrs. Perry, Nellie Hawkes, Mrs. May E. Mills, Henrietta Thompson, Bertha Weeks, Carrie Weeks, Nettie Tilton, Pamela Tilton, Regina Wilbur, Madeline Wiggin, Mary Williams and Emma P. Ward.

AUTO CRASHES INTO TEAM; SPEEDS AWAY

After running into a buggy on Broadway, Somerville, smashing it and injuring two men, a large touring car got away before its number could be taken.

William J. Johnson of No. 78 Winter street, Malden, was driving along Broadway with two other men as his guests, in an open buggy. Opposite Kensington avenue Johnson got out to adjust the carriage, and while he was doing this a large touring car ran into the buggy, smashing it and throwing the two men into the street. One of the men was rendered unconscious.

YOM KIPPUR, DAY OF FAST, KEPT BY JEWS

Yom Kippur, the day of atonement, is being observed to-day the world over by Jews, both orthodox and reformed. The observance is marked by a rigid fast, which will not be terminated until sunset this evening. Services in the temples and synagogues began at sunset yesterday, and long services of the regular devotions there will be memorial services in some of the temples.

Tots exciting, feasting will follow the fast. All cedar and up to manhood all deny themselves entirely in the contemplation of the religious significance of the day.

At Temple Israel Rabbi Fleischer, speaking on "The Law of Love" said: "The deity of Christianity was merely a relic of heathen days, a survival of the pagan belief that Christians pride themselves on such survivals. Christianity is essentially Jewish. Nothing is more so than the trinity of Paul of which I have already discussed hope and faith.

"The feeling of love is at the same time among the earliest and most natural of human experiences. It is the first virtue to be established as a permanent and dependable quality. I refer now not to mutual sex attraction, but to that finest human trait, of which the sex passion is only a single form, namely, to that attitude of mind which is the highest expression of the individual, the noblest development of the individual.

"The life of love grows through being. Deliberately to indulge oneself in hatreds, antagonisms, prejudices, dooms, prevents one's progress as a lover of mankind. There are many persons who appear to find a fiendish satisfaction in hatred, though these very persons like to regard themselves as champions of morality, of virtue. Such a one is an honest hater. Habitual hatred is among the lowest of human traits, even if it is not punishable by law, and the hater is not responsible by law, and the hater is not accountable. I would rather associate with a lover of honest thief, like Robert Burns, though he be dissolute and otherwise sinful, if his heart is good, than with a man for all that, than keep company with a self-righteous prig, whose attitude is formulated in, 'I hate that person' and 'I can't bear the other.'

"Rightly, 'All the world loves a lover,' and not simply the man and the maid who love each other, but, in the larger sense, those who live the life of love for God and love for man."

Good Things to Eat.

Notwithstanding the fact that nearly 200,000 bushels of fruit arrived in Boston markets the price still continued to rule high. Large sales were made by jobbers at retail, the highest price the commodity has ever reached. At that the retailers do not get rich on it, for they have to pay for the costs and the freight.

The threatened rise in beef has not materialized yet, although provision dealers profess to be expecting an announcement that the wholesale price has advanced.

A few Cape Cod scallops found their way to the Boston market on the first day of the season. They were sold for 75 cents a quart. Milkfish and bluefish have also put in their appearance, the latter selling at 15 cents a pound and the former at 15. Shoal halibut are scarce and swordfish are growing scarcer every day.

Shore birds are beginning to appear in small quantities. Black ducks are selling for $2.25 a pair, teal at $1.50 a pair, while yellowlegs and plover for 75 cents each and the smaller birds for 50 cents each. Guinea fowl, which are becoming more and more popular in the Northern markets, sell for $2 per pair.

Cape Cod cranberries are arriving in large quantities, selling for about eight and one-half cents a quart at wholesale.

Butter does not seem to advance in price to the extent that was predicted a week ago, when it was said the good butter would sell for 50 cents a pound before Thanksgiving. Fancy creamery butter is now selling for about 30 cents and good workers butter for 32 cents.

COOK TO SUE PEARY; SLANDER TO BE CHARGED

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook is preparing to-day to bring suit against Commander Peary for slander and the misappropriation of Dr. Cook's stores at Etah. This action is being arranged in view of the reports that Peary has placed his attack upon Cook in the hands of a lawyer.

Because of the attitude of the two explorers it appears to many of their friends that the courts, not the meetings of the scientific societies, may decide who discovered the Pole.

Dr. Cook refused to discuss impending legal proceedings when questioned. He will not deny that proceedings would be brought, but he left the talking to his secretary. In the presence of several persons, Dr. Cook's secretary said:

"Affidavits from seven persons have been secured for any emergency. I doubt if any proceedings are brought at once, but will say definitely Dr. Cook has been in consultation with Mr. Bradley for three hours. They are perfectly willing to meet any attack made by Peary, but I am not free to say whether or not such attack will be forestalled by legal proceedings."

Cook Has Affidavits.

"Will Dr. Cook charge slander?"

"I will not say."

"Will he charge that Peary took his stores and furs and sold them?"

"There are affidavits bearing on these points."

"Will the proceedings be brought by Dr. Cook or by Bradley?"

"I should say that Dr. Cook will take charge of his own affairs."

From another source it was learned that Dr. Cook is preparing to charge Peary with slander in saying that he had given the public a gold brick in claiming he had found the Pole, and that two charges would be made in connection with events concerning Cook's stores.

Dr. Cook is said to have learned that furs secured by his party have not only been given away, but have been sold. The National Museum, for instance, is not empowered to buy furs from an explorer, but it may have been supposed to be unclaimed. In the affidavit made by Rudolph Francke, he states that he noticed the addresses upon certain parcels sent back by the Peary relief boat.

Geo. Thomas Hubbard, president of the Peary club, did not return to the city to-day, as was expected. General Hubbard is a lawyer and, according to despatches, is preparing Peary's attack upon Dr. Cook.

Golden Harvest for Explorer.

Meanwhile it appears that there is a golden harvest in store for the discoverer of the Pole, and it is upon this feature of the case that report says the rival suits may be brought.

Dr. Cook said he had a long consultation with President Huntington of the American Geographical Society. The date for said his earlier expressed unlooked confidence that Dr. Cook was the discoverer of the Pole.

Dr. Cook begins his lecture tour on Monday next, and, as regard to the financial consideration, Dr. Cook was asked how it compared with the offer of $10,000 for a lecture at the Hippodrome.

"That's not in it with the present re rangements," was the explorer's answer.

"How about an offer of $15,000 from St. Louis for a lecture?"

"PEARY FOOLISH TO SULK WHILE ROW GOES ON"

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Herbert L. Bridgman, secretary of the Peary Arctic Club, issued a statement to-day in regard to the controversy over the discovery of the North Pole, being a criticism addressed to him and his reply:

CHURCH HOUSE,
29 Union Square, New York,
September 22, 1909.

Mr. H. L. Bridgman, Secretary Peary Arctic Club:

Dear Sir—I am reported in the papers you advise Commander Peary to sulk until the Cook-Peary controversy is cleared up, and you, in my judgment, have placed him in a position where he can only do so. Peary to vindicate himself must come home and do his own fighting. Your action in thus preventing others from standing by him and helping him, and leaving him, and leave the settlement of the matter to the public, is unfair to him and his great name a very great service.

I refer to present plans, and following your advice as reported, if Cook makes a good fight, Peary gains. He stakes too much. It is a pity he cannot see these things as clearly as they are. Had he promptly congratulated Cook and his backers would have been honored beyond bounds. If it had been found that Cook was a fraud, Peary would not have been injured.

If he is correctly reported in saying that Cook and Peary are two good men, and Borup as to the Pole because he wanted the honor all himself, you are deceived in Peary. He is not the stuff American heroes are made of. Peary is a fighter, and has always been a Peary admirer, and intended to see him through in accordance with you.

But! Cus nothing he done? I am,

Yours very truly,
EDW. M. CAMP.

BOSTON SHIP CAUGHT IN GULF HURRICANE

The four-masted schooner Calumet, bound for Boston from Port Arthur, Texas, got caught in the recent gulf hurricane, according to a message received from Captain Guptill by the owners here. The four-master arrived at Port Eads, below New Orleans, on Thursday, and left for her hold. The skipper wired that gale after gale was encountered on the way. The Calumet has aboard 836,000 feet of lumber.

AGED WOMAN DIES; VICTIM OF ATTACK

ESSEX, Sept. 25.—Mrs. Josiah Lowe, the aged resident of this place who was attacked by Charles Hardick Monday last July, died at her home early to-day. Death was partially due to the attack made on her months ago, but the blow was struck by a four-year term in State Prison. Mrs. Lowe was 85 years old.

DREDGE DISPUTE MAY HURT SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI, Sept. 24.—Urgent requests have been sent to the foreign Ministers at Pekin to use their utmost efforts to settle the trouble that has arisen in connection with the dredging of the Whangpu river. Experts differ as to how long dredging may be safely suspended, but many contend that a short time will undo the work of several months past, threatening ultimately to block the entrance to Shanghai.

DR. AMES, WHO IS AROUSED BY SOUL MATE REVELATIONS

PASTOR GIVES A REBUKE TO 'SOUL MATES'

Dr. H. Lincoln Chase of Brookline, whose wife and Hartley Dennett, the architect, stood up in court and admitted their mutual love, to-day refused to say whether he was going to resign from the Church of the Disciples in the Back Bay. Rev. Charles G. Ames thinks both Dr. Chase and his wife should resign. Dr. Chase said:

"It would not be proper for me to make any statement of the statement attributed to Dr. Ames, since I don't know positively that he made it. He might have been misquoted. I don't think I ought to say anything more about this case.

"I think I have made a full explanation of what the situation really is and I know that the friends of my wife and myself are convinced of the truth of what I have said. I really cannot discuss the statement attributed to Dr. Ames."

Dr. Ames was asked if he had heard that a movement had been started by certain members of his congregation to have Dr. Chase and his wife expelled from the church and said:

"Such queer notions and loose ideas of great principles as held by Dr. H. Lincoln Chase and his wife are not at all consistent with the doctrine of our church, and the only sensible thing for them to do would be to withdraw in a quiet manner from the congregation.

"Nothing officially has come to me, although several months ago I heard some gossip of the attention that Mr. Dennett was paying to Mrs. Chase. The church has the right to ask them to withdraw or vote them out of the congregation, but the honorable thing for them to do would be to withdraw.

"No man can justify himself for bringing disorder into a family, and I am surprised to hear of Dr. Chase and his wife speaking of the matter in the light they do. Mrs. Chase certainly can't justify her position.

"Dr. Chase is right when he says there is boundless, but he is loyal. I am afraid that he is a soft, lenient judge of human nature.

"How can Mrs. Chase justify her position when she has brought unhappiness to the wife of the man who professes to love her? How can she accept the love of a man other than her husband and justify herself in the eyes of the world or God?

"The man's eyes should have been opened when he saw his own child sobbing, after pleading that her mother's love had disappeared in the newspapers in connection with this case. The shame on their own family ought to open their eyes. The children will always be in a shadow.

"All this talk of mind is merely a lack of mind. They have no right, intelligent perception. It is in illness."

NOW JUST HOW OLD IS LITTLE JOHN?

"How old is Little Johnny Jones?"

It's a question which is making all the calculators figure hard. It can be answered though, if you've got the arithmetical skill and some patience.

When teacher asked little Johnny Jones his age, he replied:

"When I was born my sister was one-quarter the age of mother. Sister is now one-third as old as father and I am one-quarter of mother's age. In four years I shall be one-quarter as old as father."

Now, how old IS little Johnny Jones? The BOSTON AMERICAN is too busy to work the problem out itself, but you help it by solving the problem and sending your answer to Johnny Jones Contest, AMERICAN, Boston, Mass.

If you send your answer in algebraic form, write out all fractions, plus and minus signs.

THINKS JOHNNY NINE.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

Sir—I believe Johnny is nine years of age. The sister is sixteen, father forty-eight and mother thirty-six. When Johnny was born sister was seven and mother was twenty-eight. In four years Johnny will be thirteen and that will be one-quarter of his father's age, who will be forty-two.

C. G. FERLEY.

SENDS DATE OF BIRTH.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

Sir—Johnny Jones was born on February 16, 1900. He is therefore nine and three-fifths years of age or nine years 219 days. JOHN H. BLACKBURN.

CONSUMPTIVE Victims Now Dead Would Be Alive

J. A. WARD, M. D., WILLING TO MAKE OATH

It Does Not Cost Anything to Try This Home Treatment

Gentlemen—Had you used $25,000.00 in advertising you could not have given a more complete list of consumptive and all the chronic lung troubles, than you have compiled in the testimonials you are publishing. I myself have used Aleod in my practice repeatedly with the most satisfactory results. I have also used it in my family with results which were most pronounced. Three cases of chronic bronchitis, which under many years of treatment by the best physicians could not be cured, were entirely relieved by the use of Aleod. I believe you have a remedy which will do all you claim for it, and I believe it will do more than this. I believe it will cure consumption in its first stages. I have used Aleod in my practice in cases of chronic bronchitis after all other remedies had failed to relieve, and in every case it has given entire satisfaction. I have used Aleod in cases of consumption in its first stages, and in every case it has relieved the cough, night sweats, and all the distressing symptoms of consumption, and in my opinion, if used in time, will cure consumption. I have also used Aleod in cases of chronic diarrhoea, and in every case it has given entire satisfaction. I have also used Aleod in cases of chronic dysentery, and in every case it has relieved the patient from suffering. You can use my name to recommend Aleod to the public in any way you see fit to do so, and I will be glad to answer any letters that may be sent to me in regard to the merits of Aleod. Yours respectfully,

J. A. WARD, M. D.

Troy, Mo., July 22, 1908.

This is only one of hundreds of similar letters from leading physicians and grateful patients that we have received and have on file in our office.

So sure are we that Aleod (Lloyd) is a successful treatment for Consumption and Chronic Bronchitis, and that you will feel its beneficial effects inside of fifteen days, that we will gladly send a full month's treatment to any sufferer who will send us their name and address.

We make no conditions except that you use the treatment for fifteen days, according to directions. Should the results be such as to make you absolutely sure that a continuance of Aleod (Lloyd) will cure you, you are to remit us $5.00 for same and continue the treatment until it is all used. If after taking the treatment for fifteen days, you are not satisfied with the results, you are to return the unused portion of the treatment to us and no charge will be made for that which you have used.

Judd Q. Lloyd, the eminent scientist who discovered the wonderful properties of Aleod, was born in Lincoln, Ill., and graduated from the Illinois College of Pharmacy in 1883, and received a diploma of merit in the pharmaceutical exhibit at the Centennial Exposition in 1884. He has been engaged in business and in discovering Aleod (Lloyd), since 1885. The Aleod Laboratories, where Aleod (Lloyd) is manufactured, was established in 1891, for the purpose of manufacturing Aleod (Lloyd) and other medicines discovered by Judd Q. Lloyd. The high standard of excellence of Aleod (Lloyd) is proof positive that it is entirely on us. What Aleod (Lloyd) has done for others it should do for you. Send your name and address to-day, state nearest express office and we will send you a full month's treatment for trial with full directions. Respectfully, Chemical Co., 2004 Lloyd Bldg., Cincinnati, O.

QUARREL OVER WORLD'S END; MANY DESERT

DUXBURY, Sept. 25.—Adventists who gathered here expecting the world to come to an end yesterday have decided that they were at least a year too precious. To-day the gathering began to dwindle and two big barges were sent for to take many of them home. Others will remain until to-morrow and repeat the religious services which were held to-day. But the tentative fervor with which the annihilation of the earth was awaited has passed away.

But the faithful told scoffers that they were coming back to hold other meetings. That the earth will surely be smashed to smithereens in 1910 is now the prediction of many of the Duxbury band.

There were some touching farewells spoken to-day. Persons who had expected to be with each other in Paradise for eternity by this time embraced sadly for another mundane parting. Those who departed down the road were cheered on their way by others who stayed behind to sing hymns and wave their hands in religious jubilation.

If there are any blacksmiths they have disappeared. More than 300 Adventists remain with unshaken faith in brother Robert B. Swan and Brother H. C. Osgood, the prophets. It is admitted that there may have been error in calculations, but that the end of the world is still very nigh is strenuously maintained. The scaling-off of the earth's crust is regarded as a certainty by members of the Latter Reign of the Apostolic Church.

SCHOOL CHILDREN IN TERROR FEAR END OF WORLD

Children in the portable school connected with the Gaston School building on L street, South Boston, caught the infection of the end of the world prophecy by the Duxbury exhorters to such an extent that teachers in several instances had their hands full controlling them.

The stories of the predictions of the Immersionists, placing 10 o'clock as the hour when the earth was to be broken up, had been read by some of the pupils and fears concerning the safety of the great globe they studied about, and many Boston in particular, took possession of the children's minds.

The leading sides, the occasional downpour of rain stirred the children to a stage of fright that bordered on hysteria. Three children in the portable schoolhouse became so excited that their terrified screams resounded through the big building down at hand, and the infection reached them, who added to the general uproar.

Following the breaking of the storm, however, and the knowledge that the fateful hour of 10 had passed without any one toward event transpiring, the pupils were quieted and later on were dismissed for the remainder of the day.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

EARLY'S SKIN SHOWS LEPROSY BACILLUS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Dr. G. Armauer Hansen, discovered of the leprosy bacillus, has announced that he has found the bacillus in the skin of John Early, the North Carolina soldier, whose detention here for many months attracted wide attention.

Early, who was isolated for a year by the health authorities of Washington in the Eastern Reservation Prison pesthouse, was brought to New York from Seattle by the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital. He improved so that he was discharged from the hospital three weeks ago. He is now living in retirement in Brooklyn, and visits the hospital for treatment once a week.

FOREIGN ANIMALS GET HIGH PRIVILEGE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The curious situation of animals of foreign origin having right of way over live stock of domestic origin is given in a decision just made by the Treasury Department, acting under a provision of the new tariff law.

The department holds that animals of domestic origin taken abroad for temporary exhibition for a circus or menagerie are entitled to free entry upon their return to this country, although such animals if of foreign origin, may be admitted free of duty if exported in accordance with the customs regulations.

SOPHIE BECK IS AT LAST IN THE TOILS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Sophie Beck, already charged with swindling, has been arrested in Atlantic City after a chase which lasted four years and covered 25,000 miles. Since she left this country she has gone all over the civilized world in her efforts to escape the law. In all it is estimated she travelled 25,000 miles.

New Picture of Mayor in Municipal Register

Chief Executive Has Special Sitting to Adorn City Publication.

Here is the newest picture of Mayor Hibbard. It adorns the first page of the Municipal Register for 1909, which is just being distributed.

Instead of following the custom of his predecessors and using same picture each year while in office, Mayor Hibbard decided that in the 1909 publication he would have a new portrait of himself.

The latest picture of the Mayor is a fine engraving and shows him in an easy attitude in a characteristic pose. He declared a year ago that too much city money was spent in providing expensive engravings for the Municipal Register.

Mayor Hibbard to-day signed the contract awarding to William J. Berry the building section 4 of the Stony Brook sewer. Berry's bid was $147,841.25. He was the lowest bidder. The Finance Commission decided that Berry was entitled to the contract.

GIRL GATHERS EVIDENCE TO FREE FIANCE

Miss Annie Churchill, sweetheart of Raymond Ploufe, the Harvard farmhand, who, with Leon Ledoux, is charged with the murder of Dr. Henry N. Stone, a wealthy Newburyport dentist, is to have a conference with her fiance's attorneys early next week at which time plans will be made to free Ploufe.

Miss Churchill believes that Ploufe is innocent. So confident is she that the sweetheart of the man charged with the murder did not participate in the crime charged him by the Government that she plans to take the initiative in the gathering of evidence in his behalf.

She plans to trace every move made by Ploufe on the fatal Monday night, and to produce witnesses to prove her fiance's contention that he drove Dr. Stone to the Ayer railroad station and left him there.

Ploufe and Lapointe are in the Pitchburg jail to-day, awaiting the action of the next grand jury, which meets in October. Ploufe had determined to tell his story when he was arraigned, but after much persuasion by his attorneys he refrained from doing so.

His lawyers pointed out that the fact he was the last man seen with Dr. Stone would be sufficient for any judge to bind him over to the grand jury. When he realized this was true Ploufe decided not to tell his story in the lower court, but to keep silent until after the grand jury had an opportunity to consider his case.

BIG NAVY SURE AGENT OF PEACE SAYS SEYMOUR

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Admiral Sir Edward Seymour, here in command of the visiting fleet with the giant dog of war Indefensible as his flagship, declared to-day in an interview for the AMERICAN that battleships are the greatest safeguards for peace.

"The present assemblage of the fleets of all nations is a great factor in the promotion of peace," he said. "It gives each nation an opportunity to see for itself how strong and well prepared the other nations are and prevents war.

"It is not difficult to understand that with the growth of the navies of the civilized nations the possibilities of war have been so greatly decreased that an armed conflict of any kind seems hardly within the bounds of a possibility.

"The interests of the civilized world are becoming more and more united every day. The great nations are all in harmony now. I see nothing but peace and advancement in the future.

"There exists now an almost unbreakable bond between the civilized nations of the earth."

Referring to the amicable relations between the governments of Great Britain and United States, Admiral Seymour spoke in a tone of most impressive sincerity.

"We Englishmen and you Americans are just alike under our skins. And we are getting more and more to recognize this fact. I know that we will always stand together."

The English admiral is the direct antithesis of the popular conception of him as a British seadog looks rather. He is tall, rather thin, and wiry in appearance. His straight carriage and full slightly tinged thin hair belie the three score years to which he confesses.

His forehead is high and intellectual. His eyes are gray and as inscrutable as the sea water. He has a fighting jaw, long and lean, and forces like the characteristic bulldog jaw of the sea fighter.

To all, who talked with him, Admiral Seymour expressed his great pleasure to be in the United States upon such an epoch-making occasion as the Hudson-Fulton celebration.

BOSTON COLLEGE DEBATERS ELECT

The Marquette Debating Society of Boston College, for which only freshmen and sophomores are eligible, has elected the following officers: Henry Sullivan, '12 of Salem, president; Daniel P. J., has been appointed moderator of the society.

FIREMAN RISKS LIFE, SAVES CAT

Ladderman Buckley of Ladder 1 on Friend street rescued a valuable angora cat that was in danger of suffocating in a brisk fire in the building at No. 114 Hanover street.

While the fire was at its height on the third floor of the three-story building, Buckley, hearing stifled "me-ows," investigated. He found the cat on the Union street side, partly suffocated by the blinding smoke. Quickly the fireman, who was on a ladder, broke the window, and endangering his own life went through the flame-wrapped room and brought the cat to safety.

accumulated for such an emergency; seal skins were fed to the starving dogs, which the natives would not kill. The dippers were cut off and boiled as food for ten. James Steel, the mate at an Eskimo camp at the head of Frobisher Bay during the blizzard, used blubber for light, or heat, as well as food.

Captain Brown is one of the best known Scotch captains. He was master of the Windward, which brought Nansen back from his Arctic expedition in 1884. He is sixty-two years old and suffered severely from the cold and exposure, but he and his others found to the Jeanie were in good physical condition.

Surprised by Women.

During the Spring, when seals were on the ice, and later, when deer could be shot, food was more plentiful, but every one was on an allowance of one biscuit a day besides meat. For a long time the most sugar had been low, and was appreciated by polar bears killed forty yards from the station a few days before the Jeanie arrived. Two of the crew, Alexander Mackie and William Morrison, had left the station in December for Mica Bay Island, in Hudson Bay.

Morrison had frozen both feet and gangrene had set in on one foot. Part of the other was amputated by Eskimo women, but it did not stop the gangrene. Behind with Captain Brown and Steel were Engineer Johnson. Characteristic American.

HARRY WHITNEY, COMING TO PROVE CLAIM OF COOK

MRS. BELMONT GIVES HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont evidently does not intend to devote all her spare time to woman suffrage. To-day she called a meeting of the South Shore Hospital Association and invited all the residents of Long Island to be present, the meeting being held at her beautiful country place, Brookhollt Villa. Mrs. Belmont stated it was her intention to do away with large hospitals and start a chain of small ones, which would accommodate thirty or forty patients, thus keeping down the expense of a large institution. She hopes to have a hospital every twenty miles or so and cover the entire island with them.

BANNERS OF SUFFRAGISTS ARE BURNED

LYNN, Sept. 25.—The banners of the suffragists, which were put up on the Common in preparation for a mass meeting there, were torn down and burned today by Park Commissioner Hawkes, who says he will prevent any kind of a demonstration.

The suffragists announced their intention of holding their meeting at 2:30 today on the Common near the bandstand, and made preparations by decking it with small white emblems which were put up soon after midnight. They were discovered by Commissioner Hawkes, who had all the regalia torn down and the bandstand boarded up for the Winter.

"I am much incensed," said he, as he watched the seventy-two banners burn. "These women are not working in sympathy with the decent element of this community.

"Under no consideration will their meeting be held here this afternoon. The laws do not permit any meetings on the Common, and I shall be prepared with men and officers to put a stop to it. In putting up their flags they must have pulled down part of the stone underpinning of the bandstand, for it has fallen away since last night. This is pure vandalism, and it must be laid at the doors of the suffragists."

The suffragists, when they heard of the burning of their banners, declared they will protest to Mayor Rich, and that they will hold their meeting despite Mr. Hawkes.

DROWNS WHILE IN SWIMMING

James Dalli, fifty years of age, of Main street, Charlestown, a driver of a city dump cart, was drowned early to-day by falling from the dock at the Sullivan square playground.

Dally went to the dock and prepared for a swim, his shoes being found on the dock. When the body was recovered his watch was still ticking. The body was removed to McArdle's undertaking rooms on Chelsea street, Charlestown. Dalli was employed as teamster for John Hooley of Charlestown, who furnishes dumpcarts to the city by contract.

BIG AUTO RACE IS HELD UP BY POLICE ORDER

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—No less nerved auto racers tore around the Brighton Beach motordrome at sixty miles an hour in the dark, smoke-like atmosphere last night, and none of these death defying sports are doing so this morning.

The police experiment took a hand in the matter and decided that the slippery condition of the course made it too hazardous to the contestants in the evening-four hour race to permit them to start.

Inspector Stephen O'Brien of the 4th Brooklyn inspection district, was responsible for the postponement. All of the nine entrants and all of the race officials were in attendance ready to begin what was expected to be the most sensational track competition held here this year.

The track apparently was in excellent condition notwithstanding the pouring rain, but Inspector O'Brien after a close survey of the course decided that the running of a twenty-four hour under the conditions would be dangerous to the lives of the competitors.

The Inspector notified A. D. Cordner, chairman of the Brighton Beach Company, that the race must not take place.

SOMERVILLE BATTLES THE BOSTON ROVERS

At Franklin Park to-day the newly formed Somerville soccer team goes up against the champion Boston Rovers on the latter's grounds. Somerville has a fast combination of players, several of whom are out of-town men with good reputations as players.

Lynn, with a game won and lost, goes to Brockton. If Lynn plays up to anything like its Williamson cup form, the peeps should come home from Brockton had some good material in the field, but as a combination it lacks in the finer points of the game.

In the Lowell League a match is scheduled at Methuen, where the championship meet Andover. Both teams are tied for first honors and to-day's encounter will decide the leadership of the league for the time being. The game will probably draw one of the best crowds of the year.

WILLETTS HAD SHADE BEST OF NITCHIE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—In a terrific fight which had the local club grounds on its feet the greater part of the time, Johnny Willetts last night defeated Young Nitchie of Kensington in the 20-round wind-up.

There were enough blows exchanged to have knocked out a half-dozen men. Each time Nitchie got a punch on the jaw he shook his head and fought back in a desperate fashion, but Willetts' left hand style had him completely puzzled. The pace was so fast that it told on the nerves of Nitchie and Nitchie began to weaken before the final bell rang. It was Willetts' fight, but not by a wide margin.

STATUS OF COLLEGE ATHLETES DECIDED

Major John F. Itkon, chairman of the National Registration committee of the A. A. U. of the United States, has received several inquiries in relation to the status of college athletes who have been identified with the clubs and who have competed in the summer months. They all seem to be anxious to have a clear definition of the law governing the right of college athletes to compete.

The major decides that during the scholastic year a college athlete must elect which organization he will represent in open competition. He can represent his club in open competition and his college in competitions closed to colleges.

BOSTON COLLEGE ELEVEN TO PLAY

Boston College will play seven games against other college elevens this season. Schedule:

October 9, Massachusetts College of Pharmacy at Boston; October 16, Rhode Island State College at Kingston; R. I.; October 23, Vermont University at Burlington, Vt.; October 30, St. Anselm's at Manchester, N. H.; November 6, Dartmouth College at Hanover, N. H.; November 13, Connecticut State College at Storrs, Ct.; November 20, open.

KLING CAN COME BACK.

Johnny Kling can be forgiven any time he likes, Chairman Herrmann has just publicly declared that the great catcher had been blacklisted for three years. This always the case with a star player. When Pat Dougherty left the Yankees in a huff in 1904 Jimmy Johnson declared that the hard-hitting outfielder should never again play in the American League. Pat was behind the Walla Walla team with three months after the misunderstanding. If Pat had been a man instead of a star he would be playing ball in the Tri-State yet. It makes a difference.

Boxing News in Brief Form

The officials of the Fairmont (W. Va.) Athletic Association have announced that they will be calling off of Kid Kaufman-Leonard match, scheduled for Sept. 30, unless the latter puts up his end of the money. Both principals state that they are prepared to run up to the limit and will steer clear of fouls.

Oh, Say, It's Soft!—By Tad

JOHNSON-KETCHEL FIGHT WILL NOT BE POSTPONED

By TAD.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 24, Tad, Boston AMERICAN:

"There will be no postponement of the Johnson-Ketchel fight. Johnson is down to 200 pounds and ready to fight on scheduled time. He weighed 222 when he boxed O'Brien. Right now he is great. Mr. Jeanes must sign articles for the match within the specified time, or we will draw down our forfeits. We can't wait forever for him, especially as Johnson is ready for the original date. Johnson's articles arrival of Jeffries.

"(Signed) W. W. LITTLE.

"Seal Rock House."

The above wire blew in last night, and from the tone of the thing one is led to believe that at last Johnson has got down to strict training and waiting for the scrappers.

Willus Britt wanted the date of the Ketchel-Johnson fight pushed back, but as there is a $5,000 side bet and forfeit up Johnson has worked himself right for the date and will either get the fight or the forfeit.

Jeffries, too, agreed two months ago to sign mail articles six months from that date and post the forfeit and side bet money. Johnson probably feels that upon his return Jeff will start on a strenuous local crusade for advertising and forget to fight.

He will stop talking fight with the ex-boiler maker if he doesn't get right down to business.

* * *

IT IS ABOUT TIME something definite was done.

* * *

From New York to Frisco the sporting press of the country is after Willus Britt and his queer methods of kidding the public.

Although Willus may not have been personally connected with the queer deals pulled in Frisco he was there nevertheless and in some way or other interested. His rep. in this matter still clings to him and when the slaughter Ketchel fight had the crusher put on it Britt and his old record came up.

The Frisco scribes believe that it was Britt who had the officials interested in stopping the go, and one writer claims that Willus himself was elected with an official just prior to the big blow-off. They say that he was not satisfied over the fact that the go was called off, and was only too glad to get out of town away from the offers that poured in on him.

It was kind of strange at that. If Britt wanted Ketchel he had a manifest five or six stabs right around New York that would have accommodated him. Langford was willing, but Willus and his great terror decided to insert an egg in their bond and beat it.

The proposed Johnson-Ketchel fight, which promised a $6 house, has dwindled down smaller than a peanut. The fans of the East know that if Steve couldn't put away Pop Foster there was no chance of a lame Pop like Jeffries.

* * *

DARTMOUTH HAS SCRIMMAGE

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 25.—The Dartmouth College football team was in its best form scrimmage of the season to-day. It was very snappy despite the fact that the oval was damp from the rain. The practice started late in the day at 5:30 and after a warming up, the ends were sent down under Sherakis's and Hargerodi's punts, while the backs caught and ran them back. The line was in charge of Coach Keady and Captain Tebbit.

The scrimmage lasted fifteen minutes. During the time the Varsity scored one touchdown and one goal from placement. The teams were lined up on the Varsity seventy-five yard line with the Varsity in possession of the ball. After a few short bucks by Ingersoll and Sherakis the ball was passed and carried the ball to the second's forty-five yard line. An exchange of punts followed.

The Varsity gained the ball on the second's twenty-yard line, where it was rarely carried over by Marks.

GLIDDEN TOUR CAR IN BOSTON

Although the East did not have an opportunity to see the Glidden tour this year it will have a chance to see the cars that won both the Glidden and the Hower trophies. Those cars, the Thomas six-cylinder, 48 horse-power touring car and the other a sixcylinder, 36 horse-power roadster, arrived here yesterday and are now at the salesroom of the A. W. Maguire company, No. 745 Boylston street.

At the conclusion of the Glidden tour at Kansas City the contestants had a chance to show their cars in very decisive fashion. It results was a very decisive fashion. It was the economy test which was a feature of the Glidden tour. Thomas ran right from that city

* * *

Now neither one of these cars has been given a single replacement of a part since they left Buffalo early in July for their 2,626 mile journey over the bad roads and hills of the West that was destined to bring to them double honors, the winning of the two principal touring cars under the auspices trophies of the year and the winning of them by absolutely perfect scores.

In examining these two cars prospective buyers will have an opportunity to see cars that have travelled already the way the over 1,000 miles each. In this way the company expects to show in just what condition its cars may be expected to be at the end of several thousands of miles of travel, a fact that should appeal to those interested among the line.

Usually the buyer of a car is shown one direct from the factory that has been run but a comparatively short distance, just far enough possibly to put it in good working order and from it he can gain no idea at first hand of whether it will stand without flinching the work he will call on it to do.

SCHOOL FOOTBALL

The coaches at this year will impress on the minds of the candidates the value of quick and correct judgment on plays where they have the option of taking or declining distance penalties against the opposing team.

* * *

It would be well to remind the players of teams in the Interscholastic League that a disqualification for roughing in a game means that the player is out a debarment from both games. Two years ago Bernard Gilbert, of Holy Cross, was forced to the prized scrapper in the history of the game.

* * *

Charley Ford, the coach at Yale is to reschedule their football. The layout of the field and bleachers for the coming season will be changed. If the new attractive gridiron around Boston, Newton High is fortunate in having it.

* * *

If he could only find time to coach Raleigh Fisher would make a great coach for Coach Bill Reid at Tufts College. Fisher is now a freshman at the school, and some years ago was considered one of the pinching fullbacks in the game. He played with Dartmouth.

* * *

A big problem at Somerville High is to find a man to speed up the team at quarter. Bill Foley is not a term general and is better fitted for some other position. It looks like young Mathews to hold the place.

ATHLETIC NOTES.

That every knockout is a fraud was shown yesterday by Bruno was selected official referee of the Metropolitan Association. Two ten round bouts and one all season, but the matches nevertheless wanted him again, and he will referee another one next week.

G. W. Walker, of the New York A. C., is displaying lots quite a humble. At the championship games at Travers Island he was showing against that number, Elder. Bernie Wefers' speedy walker to alone as one of the stars of the season.

* * *

Next a few say that Bernie Wefers, trainer of the New York A. C. athletes, will not be back with the team next season. This is hardly possible for he has a big job on hand to develop Walter Ivy, the phenom 15-footer, into a champion. From a spectator's point of view, some of the best athletes will have developed before.

The curtain on the outdoor season of the Intercollegiate Association A. A. will be rung down with the Fall Games at Celtic Park, L. I., on Oct. 9. The big meet will take place at Celtic Park. The following events, each to count 5 points for first, 3 for second, 2 for third and 1 for fourth, will be decided: 120-yard run, scratch; 220-yard run, scratch; 440-yard run, scratch; 880-yard run, handicap; 1-mile run, handicap; 2-mile run, handicap; 120-yard hurdles, scratch; 220-yard hurdles, scratch; 2-mile steeplechase, handicap; 1-mile team race, Collegiate College, pointing to second team; scratch; 3-pound hammer, handicap; discus, handicap; 56-pound weight, handicap; high jump, handicap; pole vault, handicap; broad jump, handicap; 56-pound weight, handicap.

* * *

In the two-mile race at the indoor champion ship, George Bonhag, the record holder, will be matched with Dobson, the English champion. Nelson, Ellis, Collins, Bellars, Wm. Bruns and Bonhag will also be entered in the event. Bonhag is getting up in condition and is training for these events and if he reaches the form he showed last Winter he will prove a champion. He will have to be in fine class indeed, however, if he expects to win, as Nelson, Ellis and Bellars are in great class condition and will travel close to record time.

HARVARD SQUAD TAKE SECRET SIGNAL WORK

Previous to coming out for their practice, the entire varsity squad was given a long blackboard talk in the locker building by the various coaches, all of whom were on hand. Some 25 minutes was spent in this manner, after which the men went to the cage, where the work was entirely secret, no one but the coaches, players and managers being allowed in the building.

For the first few minutes in the cage the linemen were given their usual preliminary work in charging, breaking through and blocking, after which two teams lined up and ran through signals for about three-quarters of an hour. Capt. Fish was on hand but did not get into the play. The teams were made up as follows:

There will be practice for the varsity squad this morning, and, if the weather permits, there will be the real thing in the way of a scrimmage, for only three days of work remain before the game with Bates next Wednesday, and the coaches want to get the men into shape to make a good showing.

Yesterday morning the second squad was at work on Soldier's Field and was given a hard workout in the scrimmages line. The two teams were chosen from the squad and were given through their task at a lively clip for about 35 minutes.

There was no scoring, as this was not the intention of the coaches, who lined up the men to coach them on both defensive and offensive work. One team was given the ball and allowed to rush it a distance, and coached on the offensive, while the other eleven was given defensive coaching. The men were driven hard all the time, and a sharp eye was kept for prospective varsity material.

STRAIGHT DOPE
FOR SPORT FANS

THE BOUTS AT THE ARMORY NEXT Tuesday night are going to have more real tone than the affairs even at that exclusive organization usually have. I know a whole lot of staid brokers who will be making excuses to their wives about work at the office, and if you take a look you will see a lot of them in ringside seats. For way? Ask me. Eddie Sierlin, who manages Otto Mantell, is now an embryonic broker—at least he draws a salary in a broker's office—and the men of stocks and bonds are going to the triple A. to see him perform. Eddie is as much a favorite with the brokers as he is with the boxing fans, and when he showed up the morning after his hard bout with Mantell, with not a mark visible on his classic features, they all wondered way and commenced to think these bouts were not the knockouts and frame-ups they had imagined. Eddie mixes it with Mantell again, and they are going to take a look.

IT TAKES A WISER MAN THAN I am to grind out this Dope every day and never make a mistake, and I was in bad when I said the other day that Mike Twin Sullivan had knocked out Jimmy Gardner. In answering a question as to the claims for the welterweight title, I handed out this dope, and it was pretty bum stuff. Mike Twin defeated Jimmy twice, once in twenty rounds and the other time in twenty-five rounds. This answer goes for "Pinkie," from whom I received the following yesterday, and for whom I will purchase one large Ikation if he will call around:

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Kindly tell Mike Twin Sullivan knocked out Jimmy Gardner it says so. After the bet at make Ayers nothing at all but I'll ask he says it in the Boston American Straight Dope column. Who was right? PINKIE.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Please settle a bet made through your column between nationality of Cleotte, pitcher for Harvard baseball team, and Jacques, French descent and Jacques of French descent. B. Beta Day, are you right?

JOSEPH BELLE, Southbridge.

According to the best dope I can get, Cleotte and Jacques are Americans of French descent.

WE ARE GOING TO HAVE A NEW boxer in our midst next week, and take it from me he will give the local boys something to think about if the Armory A. A. puts him on, which they undoubtedly will. He is Yankee Schwartz, one of the claimants to the bantam title, and he is one of the lightest-footed youngsters seen in these parts for many moons. It is likely that he will be at the bouts Tuesday night and will shy his castor into the ring for any of the boys his weight.

I SEE BE THE PA-A-PURS THAT MY old college chum Roger Bresnahan and his band of Cardinals have lost fifteen straight games, and the sport writers and fans of St. Louis are sympathizing with them on their hard luck. I don't remember how many games the Yankees lost by a row, but instead of saying "hard luck" everybody around here yelled "rotten."

HERE' A MAN WITH A KICK, AND I don't know but what he's right. I don't remember having a letter from him before, but in the multitude I receive, I may have overlooked editing his. I agree with you, Jim, that ignorance should always be overlooked and I'm helping you out right now by correcting your orthography in two instances. If you want me to straighten up your construction kindly let me know.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

In regard to reading one of your articles I have right on my desk which reads Ruth, Boston Nationals, batted .315 and Ruth batted .325. Now I don't believe in letting the public know how ignorant a reader may be or I would be ashamed to have you so slighted. Come on, get next to yourself.

JAS. SULLIVAN.

No. 232 Millbury street, Worcester.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

The Harding A. A. football team of Revere, averaging 130 to 155 pounds, challenges any team in the State.

This team lost but one game out of sixteen last year, defeating such teams as the Dukes of Charlestown and the Revere A. A.

Harding Rooms should be addressed to Assistant Manager William Currie, No. 70 Broadway, Revere, Mass.

FRED EATON, Harding A. A.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Please publish the following before Saturday.

Any semi-professional team desiring the services of a fast outfielder and good batter for Saturday, address R. H. Berry, 625 Dorchester avenue, South Boston. Yours truly,

BARNEY H. BARRY.

Baseball News and Notes

Cook and Peary were amicable. That waited of the Cubs only winning two games out of the last nine with the Giants on their home grounds.

* * *

There was a time this season when the fans thought that the Yanks couldn't win any more than two games in succession, if they could do that much. Now look at them—they have won five in a row.

* * *

This is the right time to spring that old chestnut, "Wait until next year," but it's just as fast in the American League.

* * *

After leaving Washington the Detroits go to New York, Jump to Boston and then jump to Detroit for one game, and close the season at Washington, October 5.

* * *

In the meanwhile the Athletics will be playing the Browns then the White Sox and then the Senators, the final game being with that team, Monday, October 4.

* * *

The Pirates have not reached the seldom attained mark of 100 victories, but the record for victories is 116, made by the Cubs in 1906, the first year the National League season was begun on which they lost the world's title to the White Sox.

* * *

Frank Corridon was slated for release a short time ago. Now he is the Pirates winning pitcher.

* * *

Joseph gets his one run every day. Looks like a similar for 300—or better for the Detroit.

* * *

Ben-bow carped much applause when he switched from left-hand to right-hand batting in the second game Saturday. It was a pride from Alba before production. However, he will continue to practice batting in private.

* * *

Fred Merkle, the Giants' first baseman, is to better favor at the end of this season with Gotham ing and Manager Bodie.

* * *

The Duck Catcher Jimmy Archer, of Chicago has of becoming to boss while squatting, and after signalling the pitcher, is one of the things that keep gunners foemen to the bags when he is working.

The St. Louis club is going to contest Phillies's right to Dode Chapie, the Newark shortstacker, who was drafted by the Pirates. It is claimed that he had made an offer to Manager of the player and that his offer had been practically accepted.

BIG CONTEST IN M'DOUGALL-MELIA FIGHT

There will be but few empty seats at the Armory Club on Tuesday evening when the entertainment commences, for the excellence of the preliminary bouts are awakening considerable attention.

Those who witnessed Angus McDougall and Mike Melia, the rival South Boston boxers, mix matters up a few weeks ago know that a real treat is in store for them, as both boys are eager for the honor of victor.

In the second setto, Jimmy West meets Young Kenny of Manchester. West gave away a great deal of weight to Frank Kenny and put up a sensational bout with the Pawtucket boxer. In Bodey he is meeting a lad of his own weight and it looks as if a spectacular engagement should follow.

There is genuine interest, however, in the six round bout between Eddie Sierlin of Roxbury and Otto Mantell. Those who witnessed the pair in action a short while ago, are interested. Sierlin is a great favorite amongst the stock brokers where he is employed, and many of them think he is a coming champion in his class. He meets a good opponent in Mantell, however, so that the members are assured of a great bout when these lads are on the stage.

Sam Langford is taking no chances of his reputation being spoiled by the Dixie Kid, for he is working hard at N'Orleans with George Byers as trainer. Those who have seen the Dixie Kid in action are frank enough to confess that they expect Langford to beat him, but they say Sam will have to be right and travel at top speed to stop the Californian.

The performances of the Kid during the past few months justifies the assertion that Langford will be compelled to travel at full speed to stop his fellow Ethiopian in the 12 rounds.

DEFI TO JEFF BY JOHNSON

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—"If Jeffries doesn't sign a further set of articles by October 10," said George Little, manager of Jack Johnson, to-day, "Johnson will consider the retired heavyweight off his list. We have been fooling with Jeffries long enough and have decided to give him this last notice.

"When we deposited our money in Chicago and signed a tentative set of articles with Sam Berger, representing Jeffries, two months were allowed for final agreement. Since then there has been nothing from Jeffries to indicate that he intends to fight.

"It looks as if he wanted all the advertising possible and then will quit us. We have decided to discard Jeffries' name. He had better get into action before October 10 or Johnson will make other plans that will shut Jeffries out completely."

BOBBY WILSON MEETS NELSON

Bobby Wilson, lightweight champion of Canada, is matched to meet Fighting Dick Nelson at Lawrence Saturday night. Wilson started to show what he could do with the boys of his weight in this vicinity last Saturday night after stopping Kid Sherwood in eight rounds he was unfortunate enough to break his hand in the next bout with Peter Sullivan, which went the limit, twelve rounds, and is the only decision lost by Wilson.

It is realized that a victory over such a good boy as Nelson will put him in line for a match with the best boys in his class, and for that reason intends to be in the best of shape.

ALL CLUBS ELIGIBLE.

James E. Sullivan, president of the A. A. U., is in favor of admitting every club that applies for admission to that body, and if, after a club has been a member of the union a short time it is found that it does not live up to the rules of the A. A. U., such club should be "thrown out." This was the information hunarised by a gentleman very close to Mr. Sullivan, and a man recognized for his integrity and love of clean sport.

MUNSEY MOTOR TOURISTS ARE GUESTS OF THE CITY

By J. C. KERRISON.

The Munsey motor tourists are now in this city. They are here to enjoy two days of rest and recreation before renewing the struggle for honor and distinction in the run back to Washington.

These men came into town after having been on the roads between Albany and Boston something like seven hours, during which time the rain came down in torrents and the going was good, bad, indifferent and even worse than can be described. The run was coming down fairly well, when the first of the competing cars got under way.

The distance of the run was 197 miles, and the schedule called for an average of eighteen miles an hour, which was going some on roads and under the weather conditions that prevailed yesterday. One or two of the cars met with slight mishaps and tire troubles were numerous. It was remarkable that all the cars made the trip to Boston on schedule time, and that all of those which left Albany with clean scores pulled up with that same score at the rooms of the Bay State Automobile Association.

When the cars checked in at the finish the rain was coming down in sheets, and Chairman Trego, who has proved the regular man in the right place, a wicker for rules, but considerate of all men, determined to check in the cars without delay, and to permit the resting with water, grooming and lubricating out to go over until Monday, so that the wet and weary, travel stained men could get under cover as quickly as possible. The men and machines were covered with mud and slush, so much so that it was with difficulty one could recognize either.

The first 10 miles of the road out of Albany was undoubtedly the hardest of the lot, and it was at Huntington that the Columbia, which on the previous day had collided with a post, came to grief by going off the road and into a ditch. The cars skidded from side to side, and more than one came dangerously near to joining the ranks of the absent members.

Only Two Behind Time.

Of the twenty-four competing cars that left Albany all but two reported in on time. The first car to reach Boston was the chalmers press car, driven by Joe Matson. An hour later came Chairman Trego in the intermediate, and with him as a bunch of rain-soaked individuals in several other cars. Right at the head were the clean score machines, the Marmon, Maxwell, Elmore, Pullman, Renault, Croxton-Keeton and the American Simplex. They all looked as if they had been through a hard fought contest, as they certainly had, and the consensus of opinion was that this was the hardest day's run of the lot.

The climb up the back side of Jacob's Ladder, where many cars have come to grief, proved particularly trying. The heavy rain had caused slippery going, here being but little footing, and some of the cars had difficulty in surmounting the heavy grades. The American Simplex, the Marmon, the Studebaker press car, the Chalmers-Detroit, manned by Knipper, the winner of the flight out here at Lowell, all did excellent work on this grade.

At Worcester the party was met by a delegation from the Bay State Automobile Association, consisting of J. S. Hallett, C. J. Bailey, G. W. McNear and James Forrester, in a White steamer and escorted to Boston.

Greeted By Acting Mayor.

After establishing headquarters at the Somerset and getting into presentable clothes, the party was entertained at the Bay State rooms and during the evening received the congratulations and welcome of Acting Mayor Brand, Charles J. Gibbden and others.

In addition to the cars mentioned above there are competing in the run a Ford, Thomas, Reo, Three Washingtons, two Sextons, two Overlands, two Pullmans, two Marylands, Spencer, Columbia, Curtis, Hudson, Selden and Matheson, all of which have been given handicap penalizations.

Today the tourists are being entertained by a most elaborate program. As the guests of the Boston Journal they spend the day at Port Warren, where they see the sporting the equipment of the fort, and this evening they will be introduced to a clam bake at Bass Point.

ELECT MANAGERS OF BOSTON C. A. A. TEAMS

At a meeting of the Boston College Athletic Association the managers for the basket ball and track teams of the high school departments were elected.

Charles A. Readon, '10, of Boston, was elected manager of basket ball, while Edward J. Lynch, also '10, was last year captain of the track team, was this year elected manager for the same.

M'GOVERN TO COACH.

Arthur McGovern, captain of the Brockton football club has been secured to coach the Dartmouth College team this Fall and during the early Spring previous to the opening of the New England League. Paddy Kiely of the Worcester Club, a graduate of the college, will also coach the ball players.

ROLFE MATCHED WITH JOHNSON BY APOLLO CLUB

The opening show under the new directorship of the Apollo A. C., of Salem, will be held next Monday night with Billy Rolfe, the hard hitting South Boston welterweight, opposed to Young Jack Johnson in the feature event of twelve rounds.

Rolfe and Johnson furnished one of the most exciting contests of the season at the Armory A. A. a few weeks ago, the result ending in a decision for Rolfe. Johnson is anxious to wipe out the defeat against him, while Rolfe is confident that he will win in a more decisive manner this time. The bout is creating considerable comment and it is sure to draw an overwhelming attendance of members.

All Lynn is interested in the opening attraction, a 6-round bout between Tommy Murray, one of the family of the famous fighting Murrays, and Gus Rogers.

ATHLETIC MEET OF B. G. A. MEN

The Brookline G. A. A. track members will compete to night in the games to be held at the Boston College Athletic grounds under the auspices of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. H. B. Hill, the managing event champion, and C. Little of the Harvard track team, are among the entries. The members will compete in the events as follow:

100-yard dash, H. J. Smith, A. H. Wade, J. Arthur, J. Moran; 440-yard, E. Cappa, H. Haffenstine, H. Perry, Sawyers, Dyer, Hall, E. Cappa; mile run, O. F. Hedlund, M. T. Norris, J. Haffenstine, J. Robertson, J. Grassie; broad jump, J. Moran, K. M. Wade; shot put, J. J. Comerford, H. B. Hill, C. Little.

The cross-country runs, under the direction of Captain M. T. Norris, is already working on the road in hopes of winning the shield at the N. E. A. A. C. championships Thanksgiving day.

When you call for East India Stock Ale you get an ale that is brewed in a different and better way than any other American Ale.

The name East India arises from the purpose for which East India ale was originally made—to export to the far East.

To withstand the long voyage and to meet the exacting taste of the aristocratic Indian princes and nabobs, East India Ale had to have FLAVOR, BODY AND KEEPING QUALITY. Today Alley's East India Stock Ale has just the same distinction of unparalleled excellence.

If you have been drinking ale at random you will see a great difference if you get ALLEY'S EAST INDIA STOCK ALE.

Right Way to Rear a Child

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

FIFTEEN years or more ago Professor Elmer Gates tried to interest the thinking men of the day and the financiers to establish an institution under proper conditions, where he could illustrate his wonderful theories of brain building, the theories which, once understood and taught, would do away with reform schools first, and with prisons afterward, because there would be no criminals in time.

Professor Gates claimed that any child not an idiot could be trained to moral thinking in a comparatively brief period of time, by his process of cell-building.

Now comes Dr. Landone in Los Angeles, Cal., with his wonderful and successful experiments right in this line. He has taken an incorrigible and destructive boy of three years and in three months has turned him into a reasoning and constructive child.

And this was done simply by keeping the child occupied with an interesting game of blocks, which, when learned, brought its reward of sweetmeats.

Although the time given to this task was only three months, it would be impossible for the average parent to bestow so much attention on one child. The daily affairs of life and the needs of other children would prove obstacles.

An institution is needed in every town where teachers who understand the process originated by Professor Gates and put into practice by Dr. Landone could have entire charge of so-called incorrigible children.

Order the Keynote

Dr. Landone believes all such children to be merely batteries of active forces, needing direction only to make them useful and beneficial.

Meantime, the very foundation of this treatment for the viciously inclined is order.

Every mother can train her child in that virtue if she will. Order is the basic principle of concentration.

Begin with your child as soon as it can walk and train it in the beauty and happiness of order.

Tactfully and merrily done, you can make your baby think he is having a wonderful game, as you train him to put his toys back in their boxes, and to fold his clothes and hang them away neatly, and to put his cap on the hook where it belongs. If required but a short time, if begun in season, to guide a child to do these things as naturally as he plays with his blocks or wears his clothes.

There is no gift you could bestow upon your child when grown which can compare with the priceless value of the habit of order. The child who at ten years of age has learned to put everything he touches in its proper place and to finish every task begun before another is started, has an excellent bank account for establishing himself in life later on.

Orderly Mind Succeeds

The orderly mind is rarely the vicious mind. It is rarely the mind that fails to succeed. Only those who have reached maturity with disorderly habits and who have come to a realization of the enormous waste of vitality and the loss of time which has resulted, can fully appreciate the value of a training in order in childhood.

Give your children this education, whatever else you may be forced to deny them. It means a little persistent effort, a little daily trouble for you now, but it means incalculable benefit to the child and benefit to yourself afterward.

HE WENT UP.

"Is Mike Clancy here?" asked the visitor at the quarry, just after the premature explosion.

"No, sor," replied Patrick; "he's gone."

"For good?"

"Well, sor, he wint in that direction."

The Hand That Wants Its Half

By Dorothy Dix

A DISTINGUISHED body of scientists—probably the most eminent—has been holding a convention in Cincinnati which one of the speakers took occasion pleis and useless without the other.

The modern woman wants on ly a fair division of the spoils to deliver a jeremiad on the present attitude of women.

This gentleman declared, among many other doleful things, that the greatest danger that the world confronted to-day was the modern woman's revolt against her sphere and her desire to compete with men in painful occupations. Any bles of rivalry between the sexes, he moaned, was monstrous and unthinkable, because each sex to culminate his mind!"

And women are beginning to investigate the way men's arithmetic works out, and a lot of men don't like it. They consider it actually sacrilegious for a woman to go over a man's addition and try to verify his figures.

That's all that the modern woman movement is. Just woman's effort to collect her half of the pleasures, and perquisites, and rights of civilization that she has done her share in helping to make.

Woman says: "I have half of the brains of the world. They may not be just of the same quality as my brother's, but nature especially adapted them for doing my share of the work, so why shouldn't I have just as good a chance to cultivate and improve them as a man has to cultivate his mind?"

Woman says: "I have just as much need for money as a man has, and I often have just as much talent for making it as he has. Why, just because I am a woman, should I be denied a chance to exercise my gifts and energies where I can make the most of them?"

Woman says: "If I don't own half the property in the world I do own a goodly proportion of it. My husband leaves me his property when he dies, my father makes no difference in his will between me and my brothers. Why, just because I am a woman, should I not have a voice in the management of that property, and a right to say something about how much it shall be taxed?"

Half Interest in Laws

Woman says: "I bear all of the children. For every child that comes into the world I face death itself and such agony of suffering as no man ever knows. I spend long weary years of ceaseless nursing; and watching, and anxiety, and labor to rear that child, and it looks to me as if anybody on earth had half interest in said child that I did. Why is it that the law denies me the right and gives the child to its father in every State in the Union except eleven?"

Woman says: "I am just as much affected by the law as man is. If I don't pay my taxes, I am sold out. If I commit a crime I am tried and punished for it just as a man is. Why shouldn't I have a half show in making those laws?"

Woman says: "There are just as man women in the world as there are men to be affected by the conditions of government. There are just as many women to be fed or hungry, clothed or naked, happy and prosperous or miserable and poor as there are men. If times are hard, women are thrown out of work. If war is declared women give more than their own lives, they give the lives of their husbands and sons for the defence of their country. Why has this half, that suffers the most under adverse conditions, no right to express any opinion on the policy of their government?

Men must recognize woman's rights to gain happiness

"Undesirable Citizens"

Woman says: "My sex represents more than half of the morality and virtue of the world. Why, then, are women considered undesirable citizens?"

These are some of the questions that the half that the learned scientists think should be quiet and stay put are asking. They don't want to be the whole show, as many men seem to imagine. All that the most advanced suffragists ask is just a half portion of the rights that men have heretofore monopolized.

The professor is right in saying that men and women are the complements of each other, and that any question of rivalry between the two sexes is absurd. But the world can never be run successfully by men alone any more than it could be by women alone. It will take the two working together to make a good government, as it does a harmonious husband and wife to make a happy home.

This will never be until men recognize that women have a half interest in things and are equally co-heir with them in all the ages.

At present the most ironic phrase you ever hear is when a man calls his wife, as is often done, "his better half." "His better half!" What sarcasm.

A "Too Early" Marriage Tragedy

The following letter in an answer to the articles written by Dorothy Dix and Beatrice Fairfax, in which the question was asked, "At What Age Should People Marry?"

Dear Sir—The articles in the BOSTON AMERICAN on "At What Age Should a Man Marry?" are of great interest to me, because after two years of married life I feel the true effect of them.

At the age of eighteen (I am now twenty-) met a girl whom in the undeveloped state of my mind, I thought was the one created by God to share my joys and sorrows. I kept after her day and night, and after six months (I was then eighteen years and six months of age) we were married.

Up to that time I had very little acquaintance with the fair sex, or, for that matter was I ever in any way thrown into their company, and when the first girl I fell in love (?) with listened to my puppy declarations of fealty, etc., I thought I was the greatest thing on the top of the earth. Alas! for my ignorance and youth.

Shortly after the knot was tied I fully realized the mistake I had made. Always accustomed to the joys of life, I was bored at the monotony of living in a flat, and often longed to get out "with the boys" for a good time. That, however, was out of the question, except when I could concoct an excuse, such as "important business," "delayed at the office," "train broke down," or some other subterfuge. It did not take me very long to discover that our dispositions and tastes ran in entirely different directions, although to my blind passion I never took notice of these matters. For instances; in music I leaned toward opera and any good classical piece, while my wife's greatest delight is to listen to the hurdy-gurdy or the harmonious strains of some popular piece of ragtime. I appreciate a good book, and like to delve into standard literature, and to converse with people with a like taste, but in this district I [illegible] no encouragement in my home, being the farthest my wife gets into literature the reading of "Sunshine and [illegible] "The Bowery After Dark," or [illegible] piece of trash of a like nature. [illegible] of outdoor life, but find that [illegible] causes that the average healthy [illegible] takes pleasure in are a bore to my [illegible] a standpoint of personal advance-ment a man with more youth than experience makes the mistake of his life in getting married too young, thereby putting a millstone around his neck that will, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, never be removed this side of the grave. He is practically ostracized by all his former boon companions, and where he was the first to receive an invitation to any affair that was at one time wide open for him is closed forever, and in the narrow confines of his own little world he has to drag out his miserable existence. How much worse is it when there is nothing in common between him and the one he is sworn to love for time hereafter.

Were it not for the fact that a beautiful boy was born to us I fear that it would be impossible for me to stand the misery even to the present time. It may be all right to quote that "Those whom God joined together, let no man put asunder," and I firmly believe in that doctrine, but I feel sure that it would be the means of keeping a good many youngsters out of crazy adventures were the marriage laws more strict than at present.

I could, were I so inclined, have our marriage annulled on the ground that in the eyes of the law I am only an infant, even yet, and therefore not qualified to make any kind of a contract, and have a "free leg" as before, but when I see that sweet face of our baby boy the very thought of such a thing is repulsive.

I have made my bed, to my own misery and loss, and I am determined to lie on it, but I would like to register a warning to all young fellows, who in the heat of their passions imagine they are in love, to have somebody kick them a few times before they make the greatest mistake of their lives—the marrying of a woman that neither God nor Nature ever intended to mate.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

P. S.—You are at perfect liberty to use this letter in any way you see fit. If it will make a young fellow think before he leaps it will accomplish the purpose intended.

To-Day's Best Story

A TIMBER merchant was sitting in his office one day, musing sadly over the general depression in the wood trade, when a young man entered.

"Do you sell beech-wood?" asked the stranger.

"Yes, sir," replied the merchant, rising with alacrity, and hoping that he had got hold of a large order. "We can supply any quantity on the shortest notice, either in the log or the plank."

"Oh, I don't want so much as that," said the youth, shifting his feet uneasily, "I just want a bit for a fiddle bridge."

The Artist and the Farmer and the Cow

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

FARMER Furrow had a cow, an interesting creature,
With loving eyes and placid brow and gentle face and feature.

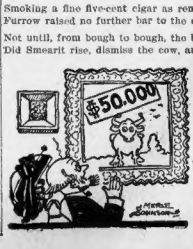
Famous Artist Smearit thought nothing could be quainter
Or more peaceful, and besought the privilege to paint her.

He was for beginning straight, but the thoughtful farmer
Said the paint might percolate through her hide and harm her.

Smearit said: "I'm glad to glean that you seem to love her;
But, dear sir, I only mean to paint a picture of her.

Smoking a fine five-cent cigar as remuneration,
Furrow raised no further bar to the operation.

Not until, from bough to bough, the birds at eve were flitting
Did Smearit rise, dismiss the cow, and terminate the sitting.



Farmer Furrow soon forsook the countryside's allure,
And with his daughters undertook a European tour.

In an art store in Paree, where they all Septembered,
They were much amazed to see a face that they remembered.

With rustic outcry and acclaim they gleefully drew near it,
And read in letters on the frame: "A Country Cow, by Smearit."

Furrow spat in sheer delight, the girls could not be quiet;
They determined, right outright, to ask the price and buy it.

With bows and smiles the dealer came. Said he: "Monsieur, ze cows and

Furrow mopped a beady brow. He said: "I'm gouged a-plenty; Great snakes! I went and sold that cow herself, last year, for twenty!"

The Right Kind of an Old Maid

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ARE you an old maid?

If you are, try and be the right kind of an old maid, for there are two kinds. There is the thin-lipped, sharp-featured, sharp-tongued and narrow-minded old maid, and there is the old maid whose mouth is curved to smiles instead of sneers.

Her judgment of all people and all things is broad and generous; mentally she is the mother of all mankind. That is the kind of old maid to be, not a soured woman with her shoulders turned from all the lovely things of life. The right kind of old maid does not think it her duty to pretend to dislike all men; she is an old maid by accident, not by nature.

Nature fashioned her for wife and mother, but accident, man's foolishness, fate, what you will, decreed otherwise.

The most necessary of all things for a happy old maid is to be independent. There are other ways of being independent than by earning money.

If you are the only daughter left at home and you are making life happy for two old people, you are independent, for you are doing a good work and filling a niche that would be very empty without you.

A Ray of Cheerfulness

If you are an invalid old maid, living with friends or relatives you can be independent by making yourself a ray of cheerfulness and comfort to all about you.

Oh, yes, there are many ways of being independent besides that of money making.

I know one old maid who has no money of her own, she lives with a married sister who has half a dozen boys and girls. Not long ago, she went on a little visit to another sister. I met the first sister one day, she looked tired and discouraged.

"Oh, dear," she said to me, "I do wish sister would come home. She is so splendid about the house and children. I really don't know how I could get on without her."

Don't you think that old maid had a place in the world?

Some women are old maids at thirty, while others are young at fifty.

The age that a woman feels is largely a matter of her own choice. If she lives sensibly and keeps her heart and mind young, her face will be young.

Late hours are a menace to youth, so also are intoxicants of all kinds.

Keep Your Mind Young.

"If you would keep your mind young, you must keep your eyes open. Keep up with the march of events, read the papers and go out as much as you can.

If you are at work in factory, store or office make friends with the young people, win their confidence and love and let them see that an old maid is not the dried up sour person she is popularly supposed to be.

I know that there is no use telling a girl that she will be as happy unmarried as married, and yet, my dears, it is better to be a happy old maid than an unhappy wife.

Of course every woman should be happily married—that is no fault of that. But apparently there are not enough men to go round, still less enough good ones.

I remember hearing a man say that Sir Oster had said the right thing when he would not have said that every man over fifty should be chloroformed, but rather every old maid."

But that man was a disappointed, disgruntled old bachelor, and no one pays much attention to what he says.

The natural instinct in the strongest quality in most women. It comes to life with a baby doll that is placed in a pair of baby hands and lives until those hands are folded in their last quiet sleep. All women are mothers at least, whether their heart's desire be realized or not.

You may be an old maid, but do not let that stifle your love of little children. Be the kind of old maid that wins the respect and admiration of men and the love of women and children.

If you are that kind you will never be lonely or sorry for yourself.

OUR tea is delicious with cream, sugar or lemon, but its flavor is rich and distinctive without any of these.

THE PERFUME OF THE LADY IN BLACK

By GASTON LEROUX.

CHAPTER XX.

"The Body Too Many."

THROUGH the window I could see Rouletabille and the Lady in Black entering the Square Tower. Never had the young reporter walked with such solemn stateliness. His demeanor might have made one smile, if instead, at this tragic moment, it had not added to our apprehensions. Never had magistrate or counsellor, wearing the purple or the ermine, entered the court room where the accused waited him with more of threatening yet tranquil majesty. But I fancy, too, that never had a judge looked so pale.

As to the Lady in Black, it could easily be seen that she was making a powerful effort to hide the sentiments of horror which, in spite of all, pierced through her troubled glance, and to hide from us the emotion which made her cling feverishly to the arm of her young companion. Robert Darzac, too, had the sombre and resolute mien of a judge. But that which most of all added to our surprise and affright was the entrance of Pere Jacques, Walter and Mattioni into the Square Tower. All three were armed with muskets and placed themselves in silence before the door, where they stood with military precision while they received from the lips of Rouletabille the order to let no person go out from the Old Chateau. Edith was overwhelmed with terror and demanded of Mattoni and Walter, both of whom were greatly attached to her, what their presence signified and what their weapons threatened; but, to my great astonishment, they returned no answer. Then the little woman rushed to the door which gave access to Old Bob's room and, extending her two arms across the threshold, as if to bar the passage, she cried:

"What are you going to do? You do not mean to kill him?"

"No, Madame," replied Rouletabille, gravely. "We are going to judge him. And in order to be sure that the judges shall not be executioners we are all going to swear upon the body of Pere Jacques, after having laid down our arms, that each of us will keep guard over himself."

And he led us into the chamber where Mere Bernier continued to groan beside the bier of her spouse. There we laid aside our revolvers and took the oath which Rouletabille exacted. Mrs. Darzac alone made some difficulties about giving up the weapon which Rouletabille was well aware that she had concealed in her clothing. But upon the urging of the reporter who made her understand that the general disarming ought to reassure her, she finally consented.

The oath having been taken, Rouletabille, with the Lady in Black still on his arm, went from the funeral chamber into the corridor; but instead of directing our steps toward the apartment of old Bob as we expected him to do, he went straight to the door which afforded entrance to the chamber of "the body too many." And, drawing from his picket the little special key of which I have spoken, he opened the door.

We were astonished in entering the room which had been occupied by Mme. Darzac to see upon M. Darzac's desk the drawing board, the wash drawing upon which our friend had worked in the Court of the Bois, and also the little dish full of red paint and the tiny brush drenched with the paint. And, lastly, in the middle of the desk, there was placed, appearing very much at its ease, upon its bloody jaws, "the oldest skull of humanity."

Rouletabille locked and bolted the door and said to us, himself greatly affected, while we listened with stupefaction:

"Sit down, if you please, ladies and gentlemen."

Some chairs were arranged around the

How to Get Rid of Catarrh

A Simple, Safe, Reliable Way, and It Costs Nothing to Try.

Those who suffer from catarrh know its miseries. There is no need of this suffering. You can get rid of it by a simple, safe, inexpensive home treatment discovered by Dr. Blosser, who for over thirty-five years has been treating catarrh successfully.

His treatment is unlike any other. It is not a spray, douche, salve, cream or inhaler, but is a more direct and thorough treatment than any of these. It cleans out the head, nose, throat and lungs so that you can again breathe freely and sleep without that stopped-up feeling that all catarrh sufferers have. It heals the diseased mucous membranes and arrests the foul discharge, so that you will not be constantly blowing your nose and spitting, and at the same time does not poison the system and ruin the stomach, as internal medicines do.

If you want to test this treatment without cost, send your address to Dr. J. W. Blosser, 210 Walton Street, Atlanta, Ga., and he will send you by return mail enough of the medicine to satisfy you that it is all he claims for it as a remedy for catarrh, catarrhal headaches, catarrhal deafness, asthma, bronchitis, colds and all catarrhal complications. He will also send you free an illustrated booklet. Write him immediately.

Suffragists to Campaign at Food Fair

Women doctors, women lawyers, business women, society women, working girls, mothers and suffragists have united the Food Fair, which opens at Mechanics building on Monday, as their very own, and he who escapes the bullets without vowing preference for equal suffrage will have to be fleet, indeed.

From the gay booth, draped with the suffrage yellow, the workers will sally forth about the hall, distributing literature, selling souvenirs and securing signatures to the monster petition to Congress.

Mrs. John Leonard of Brookline has charge of the exhibition, and she has planned all sorts of suffrage stunts for the different weeks of the fair, October 28 is to be suffrage day, according to Mrs. Leonard, and she plans to make it the most remembered day of all.

"The management of the fair has granted one day for suffrage," said Mrs. Leonard to the BOSTON AMERICAN, "and we plan to make it a grand event. Prominent suffrage speakers will be engaged and the entire day from ten o'clock in the morning until ten o'clock at night will belong to the suffragists alone.

"It will be a grand opportunity to put our views and ideas before a varied gathering of men and women and we are also so keen over the whole thing that we can hardly wait for the fair to open. We have a fine line of new souvenirs which we are to sell and also tickets for the Pankhurst meetings.

"I plan to have ten workers every day. One day will be women doctors' day, another for lawyers, another for society women, another for working ministers, still another for mothers of large families and so on.

Can You Help O'Reilly Make an Irish Stew?

There's $10 in It for the Best Recipe New England Can Produce.

Can you help Lawrence O'Reilly make an Irish Stew? Mr. O'Reilly declares he hasn't been able to find a real Irish Stew in Boston and, remembering the success of John T. Hicks, who found out how to make clam chowder through the BOSTON AMERICAN, he has come to the same source for help.

Now O'Reilly will pay $5 for the best recipe readers of the AMERICAN will furnish him and the AMERICAN itself will add $5 for the next best offering.

A swarm of recipes have already been received and competent cooking judges will decide which is best.

Here are some of the recipes:

ENOUGH FOR A BIG FAMILY.

Editor AMERICAN:

Get a piece of flank beef, cut it into pieces about three inches square, put in a pot and cover it with salt; put in onions, and salt and pepper. Let this come to a boil; let it simmer about an hour; add carrots and yellow turnip, and about fifteen minutes later put in parsnips and potatoes. If this is stewed slowly it will be thick enough without any flour. When the vegetables are soft, the stew is done. The carrots and parsnips should be cut lengthways. Three pounds of meat will make a stew for a large family.

POPULAR FOR TEN YEARS.

Editor AMERICAN:

This has been a popular recipe at least ten years: Two pounds beef (not too lean) cut up in small pieces; 1 yellow turnip; 1 onion; 1 parsnip; 2 quarts potatoes cut up in small pieces; enough salt to flavor the water, dash of pepper. Let meat cook for two hours and add vegetables; fifteen minutes later before taking from fire add dumplings made from 1 pint flour, 1 teaspoonful cream tartar, ½ teaspoonful soda and a little salt; mix with water, just stiff enough to drop off spoon, not too stiff.

ANNIE MAY HAWKINS.

No. 4 Colonial av., Dorchester.

LET SIMMER AN HOUR.

Editor AMERICAN:

Two pounds of flat rib of beef, two onions, a teaspoon of salt, a pinch of pepper, eight potatoes, beet to be cut in eight pieces, one potato to be cut small for thickening the stew, the rest whole; onions cut small, simmer one hour, cover kept on tight.

MRS. MARY OLIVE,
55 Cedar street, West Somerville.

"HOPE THIS WILL SUIT."

Editor AMERICAN:

Take about two pounds chops from the loin of mutton, eight potatoes, four small turnips, four onions, one-half teaspoon salt and one quart of water. Place them in a stewpan in alternate layers of sliced potatoes and chops; add turnips and onions cut in small pieces, then the salt and about a quart of water. Let stew until tender and most of the gravy is absorbed; place in dish and serve hot. I hope this will suit Mr. O'Reilly.

MRS. P. J. CROSSMAN.
20 Harris street, Malden.

ADD BEETS AND CARROTS.

Editor AMERICAN:

For a real Irish stew use only fresh beef, potatoes and some beets and carrots. Beets help to flavor the stew.

HOUSEWIFE.

UNITED IRISH STEW.

Editor AMERICAN:

Three pounds of the round of beef, four onions, one good-sized carrot, one small turnip, one good cupful of raw cabbage cut fine, four good-sized potatoes, one pint of tomatoes, salt and pepper to taste; after removing the scum which rises, cook the meat and all vegetables (except the potatoes) slowly until the meat is nearly done and then add the potatoes and continue cooking slowly until all is done; potatoes, carrot and turnip to be cut the size of a walnut. Chicken Hebrig.

GEO. E. FULLER,
Chef of the Culinary Dept. of the United Shoe Machinery Co.

AWAIT O'REILLY'S O. K.

Editor AMERICAN:

I hope Mr. O'Reilly will find this O. K. Take the following and cook in a covered porcelain kettle for two hours. Two pounds stew meat, two carrots, one parsnip, four slices turnip, four medium potatoes cut into dice form, two quarts water, two medium sized onions; flavor with salt and pepper. Brown two tablespoons of flour in a spider with butter; then add one cup water.

WILLIAM M. WELSH.
No. 2 Montvale street, Malden.

BIRDS ARE GOOD AND TENDER.

Editor AMERICAN:

Take about 10 pounds of the shank end of beef; two large onions chopped up fine, season with salt and pepper; place all in an earthern ware jar, large enough to cover with water. Place in an oven from 8 to 10 hours and cook slowly. The beef will fall off the bone in pieces and will be nice and tender.

MRS. J. FIELDING.
Box 116, Rochdale.

SERVE HOT WITH CRACKERS.

Editor AMERICAN:

Cut up in small pieces three pounds fresh beef raw, and put in kettle with three quarts of cold water and salt to taste. After meat has boiled two hours take one onion, one carrot, one yellow turnip and one white turnip and cut up in small squares and put in with meat to cook, which will take about an hour and a half. Take four or five potatoes, cut up in squares and one sprig of parsley and cook all together another half hour. Five minutes before taking from the fire thicken with one-half cup of flour wet with water and serve hot with crottons or crackers.

MRS. R. GEOFFRION.
Dorchester street, Waltham.

HEY THERE, YOU'RE INVITED.

Editor AMERICAN:

If Lawrence O'Reilly wants a delicious dish let him try this: One shinbone cracked and washed, one-half cup barley, two carrots, two parsnips, two onions, tablespoon salt, teaspoon pepper, one-half small cabbage or one-quarter medium one, one turnip, three potatoes; vegetables to be cut in about one and one-half-inch pieces; let meat boil two hours and add vegetables; let all simmer two hours more, and if you like make dumplings.

Here's a recipe for dumplings: One pint flour sifted with two teaspoons baking powder; one-half teaspoon salt. Wet with sweet milk and well beaten egg. Drop by spoonfuls into stew, keep cover on pot, boil exactly fifteen minutes.

MRS. EDW. KELTY.
No. 11 Mill street, Arlington.

P. S.—I would be glad to make an Irish stew and invite Lawrence O'Reilly and the editor out to dinner any time they would name.

MISS KELTY.

LITTLE SAUCE HELPS OUT.

Editor AMERICAN:

For a small family take 3 pounds of stew flank of beef, wash it and put it in a crock like a bean pot, cover with water, put 4 onions, 2 carrots, cut in small pieces, and 2 or 3 white turnips. Pepper and salt to taste, bake in oven until tender, then take 3 tablespoons of flour to thicken. I find it very nice indeed.

No. 2 I also put a little Worcestershire sauce in it.

FROM DEAR OLD COUNTY CORK.

Editor AMERICAN:

A County Cork style of Irish stew is this: Two and one-half pounds shin beef (cut above the bone), one pound salt pork cut in dice, add two quarts cold water and boil one and a half hours; then add three large carrots, three large parsnips, two large onions, all cut fine, one quart large potatoes cut an inch thick; cook all for four hours. When done, salt to taste and add thickening made from half a small cup of flour; cook ten minutes longer and serve.

L. G. BANKS.
No. 64 Williams street, Chelsea.

FOR UNCLE LORRY.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

This is for "Uncle Lorry."

The real Irish stew is made with mutton, but the Donegal stew is not. The recipe is as follows: Goat's meat chopped into small chunks, fish spoils with their jackets off; cabbage chopped up fine; onions and parsley with salt and pepper; carrots and—not a word because of their color.

He sure you get goat's meat, as the large meat markets do not handle it except as lamb or mutton.

If this does not suit, you give Mull the tip.

MARY BROPHY.
No. 413 Canal street, Lawrence.

"DON'T MAKE IT TOO THICK."

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Take one pound of beef and one pound of lamb, cut it in small squares, and have the meat very lean; add five or six small onions, cut in quarters; three or four carrots, cut also in quarters; cut them in small pieces; add turnips; add two bay leaves, four or five clove leaves; add pepper and salt to taste. Boil for three quarters of an hour. Then add one dozen small potatoes, cut in quarters. When cooked, take a little flour, mixed in cold water enough to make it like a heavy cream, add to stew, but don't make it too thick.

The Lark

By KATHERINE TYNAN.

THE cuckoo's shouting through May,
Through May,
The finches flutter and call.
But the lark has a song for every day,
Every day and all.

The blackbird's gotten the throat of a thrush,
The thrush has a heavenly song;
But the lark he sings from the heart of Joy,
Sings through the whole year long.

The nightingale in a honeyed night
Trembles the vale and hill,
But all too soon will his song take flight;
The lark he is with us still.

O'er the drenched grass and the sodden field
To the gate of Heaven will spring;
Of all the birds in the clouds is he,
The lark he shall reign as King.

For though he looks through the gates of Heaven,
He comes again to the earth;
The gravest day and the saddest even
Rise to his heavenly mirth.

The birds that came and the birds that flew,
God send them a happy nest!
But the lark that stays with us all year through,
Old friend, he is still the best.

Teach Your Children to Think Right

By ARLETTA B. CANFIELD

THERE is something radically wrong with our modern system of education. How to our girls. Our schools do not turn out the finished product which might be labeled "lady," according to the real meaning of the term.

The word "lady," as used promiscuously, does not convey the real significance of the title and has been so misused that we have gone back to the homely term "woman" to express the virtues of the sex.

Notwithstanding, it should be the aim of every girl to deserve the title of "lady," for it means the possession of all the refining virtues to be acquired by the sex.

No matter how well dressed a woman may be, nor how carefully observant she may be of her manners so far as she her self is concerned, the very minute you see her doing something which results in the discomfort of another put her down as an imitation.

If you will observe the number of girls who sit in the elevated cars with their knees crossed, and the soles of one of their shoes depositing its collection of dirt on the dress of the woman sitting opposite, you will be astonished at the number of this kind of goddess. It is not possible to excuse such ignorance, and while we have public schools there is no excuse for this ignorance.

The Flaws That Hurt

The woman who tucks her umbrella under her arm with the point directly in range of the eyes of the person following her upstairs does not do so because she has any designs on the eyes of her fellow lower, but because she doesn't think, and it is ignorance not to think.

Our public schools are to teach our youth to think. If all the knowledge they ever get from a public school curriculum is confined to the books studied, they have received very little for the time spent. Such things as these girls should learn about the courtesies of conditions, they have not gained what should be intended by those responsible for their education.

There is no doubt that the pupils who come from our high schools and colleges lack the kindness and thoughtfulness for others that tend to characterize the youth of long ago.

SOCIETY

HONORS OF HUNT GO TO THE WOMEN

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Great excitement reigns in the various smart hunting sets, as in nearly every instance of the runs this season, the women, and not the men, are carrying off the honors. At the initial run of the Hockanum Valley Hunt club at Templeton the ten women who took part were foremost in the day's sport. They were Mrs. J. E. Whitin, who has been entertaining extensively at her fine old country estate at North Uxbridge; Mrs. Josiah Lasell of Whitinsville, Mrs. Paul Whitin of Northbridge, Mrs. Cyrus Brewer of Brookline, Miss Abbott of Westford, Miss Marjorie Whitin, one of the most notable huntswomen in society; Mrs. H. F. Walton of Northbridge, Mrs. L. N. Campbell of Woonsocket, Miss Elsa Whitin and Mrs. M. G. Richardson.

* * *

The smart set from all quarters are in New York today for the Hudson-Fulton celebration. Parties from Newport and Lenox and from all of greater Boston went and the ranks of the fashionable colonies in all the resorts are temporarily depleted. Among those who went were Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Dixey, Miss Rosamond S. Dixey, Miss Clara Lawton, Miss Dorothea Gilley, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Choate, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Choate, Jr., Miss Alma Brainard, Miss Bessie Brainard, Mrs. Bradford Norman, Mrs. Walter N. Eldredge, Mrs. George Alma Mann, Secretary and Mrs. George von L. Meyer, the Misses Meyer and George von L. Meyer, Jr.

* * *

Maximilliam Agassiz of Cambridge has been here from Newport for a short visit.

* * *

George de Forest, who has recently gone to Newport to occupy the Train villa, which Miss Mary Shreve Ames has left, will give a stag party today and will have friends in for a luncheon which he is to give at the Gooseberry Island Fishing Club.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. S. Warren Sturgis, who have been guests for the past month at Coldbrooke, the estate of Captain and Mrs. John S. Barnes in Lenox, are to-day returning to their palace in Groton.

* * *

Professor and Mrs. Charles S. Sargent are still at Marblehead Neck and are not expected at their town house before the 10th of next month.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. William Dana Orcutt and family are returning to their town house on Commonwealth avenue after spending the Summer at their shore home. For a number of years Mr. Orcutt has been in town part of the time, going down to join his family over Sunday.

Miss Margaret Hale of Brookline, who has been the guest of Miss Mary Hall at Dalcroft in Stockbridge, has returned to her home here.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Elwin D. Jordan were among the arrivals in the Berkshires yesterday. They are at the Hotel Aspinwall by Lenox. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan's son, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Russell, W. P. Sheppard, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Gibbens, Mrs. Arthur Reed Tyler and L. J. Prescott Campbell.

* * *

Among Bostonians to spend the Winter abroad is Miss Emma S. Hooper, daughter of the late John W. McKim of the Probate Court in Boston, and so well known in society here and in Newport. Miss McKim is to Siena, Italy, and has with her her sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles Morgan McKim, who is being educated abroad with her children.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Batcheller of Boston have gone to New York to visit at the Waldorf-Astoria. On October 3 they are to give a dinner for their son and daughter, Miss Batcheller and the Italian commanders, Marquise Raggio Duc d'Acqui and Count Cinquanta. A reception and musicale will follow the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Abbott of this city were registered at the Belmont in Philadelphia yesterday.

* * *

Miss Edith Wetmore and Mrs. Whitney Warren were among those who left Newport yesterday. They are both to sail for Europe today.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Dallin have left Marblehead and arrive here. Mr. Dallin, it will be remembered, won the gold medal for his work in sculpture last Spring. The Dallins are to go directly to their home in Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Frank Howe, it was thought, would return to her home here after attending the Bishop Potter celebration, but she has decided to return to her Summer place at Portsmouth, Rhode Island, instead. Her daughter, Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott, will go with her.

Bishop Lawrence and his family have returned from a Summer spent at Bar Harbor, and they are at their home on Commonwealth avenue.

Miss Eulalie Jones of this city is the guest of Mrs. Oscar Isaigi at Clovercroft, for Summer home in Stockbridge, this week.

BULL GORES 2; SHOT TO DEATH

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., Sept. 25.—An Ayrshire bull, the prize exhibit of the farm connected with the Mount Hermon School for Boys at Northfield, Mass., developed a sudden attack of temper, ran amuck and tossed and severely injured two men and gored and killed a horse. A rifle bullet ended its career.

The injured men are Henry Gibbs, who was taken to a hospital in Greenfield, Mass., and Frank G. Hetzar, an employe of the Mount Hermon Farm, who sustained a shoulder fracture and was treated at the hospital here. Both will recover.

Gibbs was injured while leading the animal from the exhibit grounds at Greenfield to the railroad station. He was tossed fifteen feet. On the arrival of the animal here Hetzar attempted to lead it from the freight car, but the bull plunged and broke the staff. Hetzar fired four shots at the mad animal. After holding a number of railroad workmen at bay the animal was finally killed with a rifle.

STORM DEAD NUMBER 356

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 25, via Hazlehurst, Miss.—The unofficial count of the dead from Monday's tropical storm brings the total number up to 356, most of whom have been identified. At Houma, La., and along the Terrebonne coast and the bayous adjacent many more bodies have been recovered. Thirty-two have been picked up along the coast and connecting waterways in the vicinity of Morgan City, La., and eight between Burkdock and Frosier, La.

FULL RIGGER TOGS AT STEAMER SPEED

Completing one of the fastest runs she has ever made, the full-rigged British ship Brynhilda, Captain Schwensen, arrived at Boston after a forty-one-day passage from Buenos Ayres. For four days following her departure from the river she made steamer speed, averaging 12 knots each day. Her highest day's run was 295 miles, logged just South of the equator.

RAYMOND M'KEWAN
LITTLE WANDERER
FOUND BY POLICE

LAD LOST WHEN PARENTS MOVE

The police are searching to-day for the relatives of seven-year-old Raymond McKewan, a bright, well-mannered little chap, who was found wandering on Warren street, Roxbury, last night by Patrolman George A. Maloney of the Dudley street Station.

The little fellow, who was taken to the Charlton Street Home, tells an intelligent story of his straying. He says that he was living in Woburn, and that he has lived in Lindsey. Two days ago he folks moved to Roxbury. He lives with his mother and six-year-old sister, Catharine, on Warren street, but does not recall the number. He says it was near a church.

Last night after supper he started out to play. An older boy came along, took him to Warren street and then left him deserted him. A man in a shoe store believed him to be lost and took him inside until the police arrived.

The little fellow has big brown eyes and light hair. He wore a white blouse and gray knickerbockers, black shoes and stockings and was without hat or coat.

METHODISTS' JUBILEE DAY

The Methodist churches of Boston to-morrow will be given up to the needs of the mission work in Africa. Seventy-five years ago the first effort in missionary work was started in that country, and it is now proposed to familiarize every member of the church with what has been done, and what the church must do to accomplish greater work.

Speakers from the African field will be present in all the pulpits. Bishop Hartzell, who has spent many years in that continent, will take a prominent part in the proceedings, and will be aided by Bishops Mudiadieu and Burt, the Rev. J. A. Spring and wife, Dr. F. H. Richards and others. These rallies will also take place in Allston, Troy, Chelsea, Cleveland, Chicago, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Buffalo and New York City. The New York meeting will be held in Carnegie Hall Monday evening, December 13, with the principal speaker will be President Taft.

RIVAL LABOR UNIONS CLASH; STRIKE CALLED

Four Salem factories have accepted the stamp of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union and, as a result, fifty fasters are out on strike. The National Assembly of Labors has called out twenty Knights of Labor cutters employed by Cass & Daley. The managers of the different shops report that matters are running quite smoothly and that the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union is furnishing all the help needed.

The affair is a fight between the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union and the United Shoe Workers' Union of North America.

FEARS WORLD END; COMMITS SUICIDE

Thinking that the world was coming to an end, as believed by the "Seventh Day" George Ulbekson committed suicide by cutting his throat with a bread knife at the home of J. Donnelly, a Watertown baker by whom he had been hired as assistant earlier in the day. In the pockets of the coat were found several newspaper clippings telling of belief in the coming of the end of the world.

'BOSTON 1915' AROUSES FINE CIVIC SPIRIT

The business men of Boston are cooperating in the preparations for the "1915" Boston Exposition, to be held in the Old Art Museum, in November, as they have never before worked together for anything of the kind.

The management of the undertaking is receiving all sorts of offers to help by furnishing supplies, giving time and labor, and making money contributions. Nearly all of the city's biggest business houses have already done a part in this way to make the exposition financially possible.

The expense involved is heavy and the enterprise, being strictly non-commercial and having for a chief purpose the education, government departments, and so on, which cannot pay for the space for their displays, will be out of almost wholly from the chief source of income of a money making show.

It is surprising what a variety of things an undertaking like the "1915" Boston Exposition needs. The quickness with which the business interests in particular have responded time after time to appeals for an enterprise of all the people and that it will be of real value to the city and everybody in it, shows in the heartiness with which they have taken the chance to cooperate.

There still remain many opportunities for business firms to cooperate with Boston "1915" in the exposition and the furnishing of supplies of various kinds. A great deal of decorative work and paper is required as well as printing, engraving and electrotyping. Drafting, decorating and advertising materials can be used to great advantage. Business men are asked to help and assist by cooperating with the "1915" Exposition management in any way that they should address the Secretary, Boston 1915, 6 Beacon street, as soon as possible.

As proof of the spirit which permeates the business community of the city in support of the exposition, may be mentioned the action of prominent firms in different lines of industry who have volunteered to contribute towards the fitting up and furnishing of the small Art Museum building at Copley Square in proper condition to house the exhibits and accommodate the great crowds of citizens who are certain to visit the fair.

Among those who have so contributed are well-known painting and upholstering houses, painting and decorating firms and contractors for all sorts of materials, even down to the supply of the many cords that will be needed to quench the thirst of the hundreds of thousands who come to enjoyment of the sights of the exhibition.

NIGHT SCHOOLS OPEN OCT. 4

The public evening schools will open for the Winter session on Monday, October 4. During the first week examinations for admission will be held and registrations made. All high school sessions will be held from 7.30 to 9.30 Monday to Wednesday, except at the Central School, where the session will be held Monday to Friday at the same hours.

In the elementary schools the same hours will prevail, except that the Lewis, the Bigelow, South Boston; Bowdoin, West End; Comins, Roxbury; Eliot-Columbus, on Warren street; Franklin, South End; Lowell, Mather, Dorchester; Quincy, Tyler street; Warren, Charlestown, and the Lyman and Allston, William Wirt Warren, Brighton, will open Tuesday, 5th and following days.

At the Mechanic Arts buildings, at the Girls' High School and at the Normal School there be sufficient applications, classes in free hand drawing, general drawing, ship draughting, machine drawing, architectural drawing, shop mathematics, mechanic and industrial mathematics will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 7 to 9 p. m. Other classes will be held if there is a call for new subjects.

QUEER STUNTS BY THE WIRES

Telegraph and cable wires throughout New England and the entire country were disabled between 6 and 8 a. m. by static electricity from the Northern Lights draw on the weaker power in the wires. Not a single Boston service delayed, so were commercial messages.

The mysterious force made telegraphing extremely difficult, and played many pranks.

The wires would work perfectly for five or ten minutes and then fail. This jumping electric current would work perfectly, stealing all the power from the wires. The disturbance usually happens once a year when the Northern Lights are the strongest. Of late it has happened many times, and for the past few weeks has been discovered to counteract the havoc, which has been going on for the last eight days.

The Eastern part of the country soon recovered, but in the West there is still trouble. The Postal Telegraph-Cable Company reported no trouble and messages were sent by phone to the Western Union, but the current did not affect the wireless service either.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

WIRE TROUBLE HITS MARKET

STATE STREET, Sept. 25.—Closing—Boston played a solitaire game in the stock market to-day. It was handicapped by the lack of wire service, due to last night's storm, but it did well on a few specialties. There were fewer people on the street than there would have been had the New York market been open, but the experiment was worth trying.

The so-called Amster stocks attracted attention. Arizona Commercial made its high on the move of above 8, and Bonanza & Curtis stiffened almost a point to 7. Cumberland also stiffened a point to 10½.

The strike in the Butte mining camps is becoming serious apparently, for reports this morning stated that all the mines there were closed tight as a result of a fight between different branches of the Miners' Union. It had little effect on mining stocks, however. North Butte was strong at 49@49½, and Amalgamated at 82⅜@82⅝. American Zinc was a strong feature up to 32⅜.

American Exploration was the whole thing on the Curb and a 10-cent advance was quickly recorded in the stock, with very heavy trading in it. The company has finally borrowed $100,000, giving as collateral $250,000 of its first mortgage bonds, paying for it 6 per cent interest and 1 per cent principal in the affair.

Davis Daly was quiet at 6 and under. It has been agreed that Boston shall have two representatives on the board and if the number of directors is increased to seven Boston shall have three. Cumberland Ely was active on the Curb.

BIG CARGO OF OYSTER SHELLS FOR CHICKENS

A cargo of oyster shells from Baltimore—some of them as big as a man's hat—all of which will be ground up into poultry food, came to the docks of the three-masted schooner Edna, from the Chesapeake, and they form the strangest cargo that has floated into this port in many months. The future chicken feed was a long time coming. The Edna sailed September 1, and for days at a time there was not even a breeze, after an easterly winds gave Captain Rogers some trouble. The trip was one of the longest of the season up the coast.

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

In the absence of anything exciting in the stock market State Street worried itself about the bank statement of to-day. In view of the fact that the banks have $500,000,000 of surplus reserve held for their account by the Government at Washington, an increase or decrease of ten or twenty million dollars in the cash in New York is a matter of no consequence. Six per cent rates may be reached by accident but 6 per cent, this year will not mean what it used to mean, for we have never the 6 per cent. that frightened traders out of the market, but the 6 per cent. that meant original money. This year 6 per cent. is the North Pole of the money market.

The Bank of England is threatening to raise its discount rate next Thursday to 4 per cent. Its action thereupon may affect San Francisco bills in the London market. Lest Englishmen imagine these bills to represent Japanese banking, it may be well to state that they represent mainly English money in American cotton and lumber days' credit. They represent foreign funds borrowed $100,000, giving as collateral $250,000 of its first mortgage bonds, paying for it 6 per cent interest and 1 per cent principal in the affair.

Davis Daly was quiet at 6 and under. It has been agreed that Boston shall have two representatives on the board and if the number of directors is increased to seven Boston shall have three. Cumberland Ely was active on the Curb.

New Haven and Central Leather finished the first definite action the Street has had for weeks. The former announced a $40,000,000 stock issue, most of which is supposed to be for electrification. The Street immediately remembered that Chesapeake & Ohio directors a few years ago decided to electrify the mountain division of that road and get power from cheap coal and water power. The report that Morgan & Co. will soon organize a company to take all of his railroad interests behind Central Energy is no official warrant for saying this report is true, but it is along the line of logical development.

Estimates of steel Trust earnings for the September quarter are appearing in large numbers. Those who are supposed to be in closest touch with the management say the figures will be somewhere between $57,000,000 and $59,000,000, with $57,500,000 the favorite. This would mean that $10,000,000 could be carried to surplus after paying a dividend of 1 per cent. for the quarter. Despite its size steel trade is growing better continually, and if present prospects are realized the Trust should make $200,000,000 net next year.

Two-thirds of the mines at Butte were closed yesterday on account of labor difficulties. The Street is full of talk that a big copper boom is coming, but the copper trade is in a perfect state of delightful stagnation. There is a good consumption from day to day, and there is a big supply of metal in the hands of producers and consumers. Cheap copper is assured for two years, and a boom in electrical companies is expected by the Street.

The outlook for Amalgamated and Anaconda stocks brighter than it has been, but the purplyries, as the low cost producers in Montana, are being absorbed by the investors, and few of them are not yet in the producing stage.

There are rumors of a possible consolidation of a number of copper companies. Thomas Fleming, who is the Canadian head of the Republic Iron and Steel Company and the Republic Iron and Steel, with a view of some community of interests.

Although the market is somewhat unsettled, its undertone is good, and in some conservative quarters the opinion is expressed that liquidation has run far in its course for the time being, and that stocks are now in the hands of the strong part, fixing their way into strong hands.

An encouraging feature is the increased activity in the bond market relative to the volume of business in stocks. The neglect of bonds in the last few weeks had probably done more to keep a conservative element out of the stocks than almost any other factor.

The rejection by the Public Service Commission of the Boston Elevated reorganization of the Old Avenue Railroad Company is distasteful to some of the "interests," but is hailed by others. It is generally considered bonded indebtedness which it was proposed to put upon the new company was entirely excessive, and the stockholders will be asked to subscribe $4,000,000 for the rehabilitation of the property. The Elevated is asked to spend this money after but without having the situation presented to them in just that light. The plan would be a radical one in precedent, and the proposals which it contained have been the subject of argument in favor of having all new capital issues subjected to the approval of some outside body in the interest of investors and of the general public. The reasons for and against rates for such supervision is evident from the recent speech of President Fish, and the Public Service Commission is to be congratulated in seizing the opportunity to do the right thing at a propitious time. It has justified itself before Wall street and the whole community.

FLYING MEN MEET IN GREAT WORLD RACES

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—The International flying contests which begin at Johannisthal, near Kopenick, outside of Berlin, promise to be most successful. The competitions are being held under the direction of the German Aeronautic Association, the Imperial Aero Club and the Imperial Automobile Club. The aerodrome is a vast semicircle of eight hundred acres, bounded by forests. The flying course is 500 feet wide, 1.35 miles long and outlined by tall masts.

The contests will continue for one week. The principal events are to be distance and endurance races, a competition to reach the greatest altitude and speed and weight carrying races.

The prizes range from $1,250 to $2,500. The donor of the Michelin cup has consented that this year's contest for the trophy be held here. The cup is worth $2,000 and with it goes a purse of $4,000 to the aeroplanist covering the greatest distance.

HUNT LITTLE GIRL STOLEN FROM HOME

A general alarm has been sent out from police headquarters seeking for the location of nine-year-old Irma Cuneo, daughter of Giovani Cuneo of No. 1 Hull street, North End, who has disappeared.

Mr. Cuneo is positive in his declaration that the child has been kidnapped. A complete description of the little girl has been sent to all stations, and in addition was telegraphed to New York and the New York officers asked to watch the railroad terminals for any person with the child.

According to the story of the affair told Sergeant Donovan at the Hanover street station by the child's father, he and his wife have been estranged for about a year. During that period, Mr. Cuneo says, several attempts have been made to take the child away. According to the husband the wife is now residing in New York city.

Had He Had Had He Had Had He?

You Can't Make Sense of These Words, but They Interest You

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

Read over that top line again. It says, "Had he had had he had had he?

Read it again, and listen to the sound of the words. You can't make anything at all out of those words, and yet they have an actual meaning in a certain famous verse, which reads:

"There once was a braw Scottish laddie,
Who said as he put on his pladdie,
'I've got' a braw dish
Of a very fine fish.'
But had he? Had he had haddie?"
(Haddie is the Scotch name for a good fish.)

When you read them that way, with proper pronunciation, you see that the sounds at the top of this editorial have a very clear meaning, to wit, "Had he? Had he had haddie?"

You will ask, perhaps, what use or sense is there in this? The answer is, no use, no sense. We print it simply to call your attention to the fact that the human brain is a strange instrument overworked, bored and tired in our day.

At least two millions of people will see this column. Every one of them will read this. And a great many will repeat it to friends and ask them what they can make out of "Had he had had he?"

But if this editorial were full of the ripest and soundest wisdom, on municipal ownership, or good government, or education, how many would read it through; how many would quote it?

Something like this we said to you once before, when we asked you:

What is it that goes up the chimney down, and down the chimney down, but will not go down the chimney up, or up the chimney up?

The answer to that was an umbrella. It will go up a chimney or down a chimney when it is down, but when the umbrella is up it won't go up the chimney or down the chimney.

To-day and to-morrow, in the different cities where this editorial is published in numerous newspapers, a good many millions of people will ask each other, "Had he had had he?" or "What is it that won't go down the chimney up, or up the chimney up?"

We look forward hopefully to the day when a long editorial, truthfully and earnestly describing modern conditions, urging men to vote seriously, and persistently, and thoughtfully, shall receive the wide-spread attention that is absolutely certain to be given to

"Had he had had he?"

Protection and the Income Tax

Mr. Taft told some political secrets in Denver—hitherto open, but unavowed.

He said in effect that the corporation tax was a device deliberately chosen for the purpose of defeating the income tax.

He said that the enactment of a general income tax, such as that proposed in the Senate last Summer, would endanger the policy of protection to American industries.

The tax would produce, he said, a hundred and fifty to two hundred millions, "which was far in excess of the needs of the government, if the tariff bill was to retain its proposed form."

The consequence would be a general demand for a tariff that should produce less revenue. And that—according to the economic theorists for whom the President was speaking—would tend to destroy the protection policy.

We feel compelled to point out once more that the carrying out of an honest protective policy does not require, and cannot consist with, an extortionate tariff.

The President says, very confusedly, that if there were less revenue from the tariff, then the Democratic theory of "tariff for revenue" would prevail.

The opposite of this preposterous proposition is obviously more true.

If there were less need of getting revenue from the tariff there would be a much better chance for an effective policy of protection.

Theoretically the most effective protective tariff would be one whose rates on the protected articles were so high as to be practically prohibitive of importations, and therefore entirely unproductive of revenue.

In practice it is best to keep the domestic producers on the qui vive, by allowing some wavelets of foreign competition to flow over the tariff wall.

But the fact remains—as every expert economist would testify, if common sense were not a sufficiently credible witness—that the best protective tariff is not a good revenue producer; and, on the other hand, such tariffs as this instrument of extortion, which the President has now gone forth to defend, may pile millions in the treasury, but be worthless for protection.

Mr. Taft has simply got his brief for protection turned upside down.

The plain truth is that the large revenue that will be derived from a national income tax will enable us to rid ourselves of the "tariff for revenue only" that is now shaking the pennies out of the very banks of the babies.

And with the income tax we shall at last—after being subjected to many impostures and suffering many disappointments—find a way of establishing on solid ground the AMERICAN POLICY OF PROTECTION.

IMPORTANT TO READERS AND ADVERTISERS

THE situation in Boston is very interesting right now. The five-year-old Boston American is putting on such STRONG CIRCULATION AND ADVERTISING FIGURES, the general opinion is being voiced that Boston can no longer be classed as "a morning paper town" for advertisers, but rather the reverse. Many advertisers are using the American on Sunday, and there is still a growing list of EXCLUSIVE SUNDAY AMERICAN ADVERTISERS.

The American has gone into a strong second position in regard to Sunday business, passing the Post and comparing favorably with the long-entrenched Sunday Globe.

The Herald has suffered most in the battle for business. The afternoon edition has been suspended, and the morning and Sunday editions have but a meager representation among the leading as well as the small advertisers.

Circulation is counting in Boston more than ever before. The evening field is the American's almost exclusively, the Traveler's run of business being less than a third and the Transcript less than a sixth of what the American carries.

I made an important and interesting list of total number of lines of display advertising used during July, 1909, in the Boston newspapers by Boston's large department stores—Houghton & Dutton, Jordan Marsh, Shepard Norwell, Henry Siegel, R. H. White, Filene's, Gilchrist's, Brine's and Butler's, as follows:

	In July, 1909.
American	75,575
Globe	69,795
Post	68,235
Traveler	21,580
Journal	20,815
Herald	16,320
Record	12,465
Transcript	10,960

This really tells the circulation story as well. It is generally conceded that the Boston American has a greater circulation than all the other Boston evening papers combined, and that it is as strong in Boston in the evening field as, for example, a paper of the combined strength of the Evening Journal and Evening World would be in New York city, or the Evening American and Evening News in Chicago.

The Sunday American's circulation throughout New England adds materially to its circulation figures. Worcester, Providence and similarly located and populated towns, or rather cities, are Boston American strongholds.

While the Globe's Sunday circulation is claimed to be greater than the Sunday American's it is being recognized generally among advertisers who count returns and key their propositions most carefully that the American's Sunday circulation must be very close to that of the Globe.

The Post is third in circulation Sundays.

While the preceding department store figures for July are the latest advertising figures for comparing the Hub's newspapers, the following list of advertising gains and losses for display, foreign and local, for six months prior to July, emphasizes the Boston situation:

American's gains in columns	1,115
Globe's gains in columns	95
Post's gains in columns	805
Herald's loss in columns	993¼
The classified gains and losses:
American's gain in columns	213
Globe's gain in columns	755½
Post's loss in columns	381½
Herald's loss in columns	3151½

To sum up: The American has the evening "home" field in Boston exclusively; the Post the daily morning field; the Globe the Sunday field, with the American second and coming rapidly.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

BOBBIE, sed Pa to me wen he calm hoam last nite, wod you like to have a Afrikan postage stamp to put in yure book? Ore course I wod, I told Pa. Where did you git it? Yes, sed Ma, & why are you so late for dinner?

I will anser both questions at once, sed Pa. Jest as I was leeving the offis I got a notis from the post offis that there was a registered letter for me at the post offis. So I had to go cleer down town to the post offis to git the registered letter & what do you think, it was a letter from Mister Rusevelt. You doant tell me, sed Ma. Indeed, sed Pa, I will read it to you. Pa gave me the Afrikan postage stamp & then this is what he read:

Dear old Sport: I suppose you will think that I am dead, but such is not the case. I have put off riteing to you for many reasons, the main reason being that I am very busy riteing for my magazine.

This is a grate country. I wish you cud be here a week & go out shooting with me. Yesterday I shot a rat eater in the middel of his lunch, & this morning I shot a sloth wich was taking a nap in a bunch ovver my head. I shot the sloth beekaus he had no fambly, & the ant eater beekaus he was abusing the ants.

I see by the papers that there is a whole lot of excitement in America about Mister Cook & Mister Peary. I think Cook handed the public a gold brick, beekaus the natts of his ship was not Rusevelt. Wait till I git hoam & then I will streiten it all out for my peepul.

How is Big Bill Taft giting along? I wish the old boy all the luck in the world, but he has a pritty tuff job on his hands keeping up the grate record wich I made. & he is a litel too fat to be the hustler I was, & I wish you wud tell him for me that he wont git any slimmer going to bed, & nothing is a better stand-by ovver eating peanuts. Tell him to wrestel with the Japs and keep away from ball parks.

Well, old sport, I must close now, as I am going to git up very erly & go out to shoot sum dig-digs. Give my regards to Mister O'Shea & remind him that few polesee comishuners ever git by with eny grate amount of glory.

Your Pal, THEEDORE RUSEVELT.

Well, sed Ma, wun Pa got thru reeding the letter, I suppose you expeck me to believe that you reely got a letter from Rusevelt. Haven't I just read it to you? sed Pa. Yes, sed Ma, you have read it, but you havent shown it to me. I want to look it over.

Not at all, sed Pa, putting the letter in his pocket. That letter wich I have just read to you is a personal letter, riten by a grate man to a personal frend. I will not vilate his confidens by showing it, sed Pa. Then Pa went in the liberry & started to read, but the letter had fell out of his pocket & Ma picked it up. It wasent from Afriky at all, it was from Percy, wich used to be a enlisted hall boy up to our house, it was rote on sum letter paper on wich was marked The Afrikan Aethopian Assoclashun. It sed Deer Sur, I wud like to have you use yure influens getting me a job.

I dedint know ware Pa got the Afrikan stamp.
